Japs Admit Heavy Naval Loss In Battle

CONCEDE U. S. DESTROYED A BATTLESHIP

Tokyo Broadcast Says Second Big Craft Damaged During Solomons Battle.

NAME, CLASS WITHHELD

Foe Claims 13 American Ships Sunk, Announce Destruction of 41 Nipponese Planes.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Japan announced today that one of her battleships was sunk in the latest battle of the Solomons.

That loss, which the United States Navy previously had announced and which imperial headquarters in Tokyo thus could conceal no longer, and Japan's acknowledgment of the U. S. report that a second battleship was damaged attested to the magnitude of the American triumph.

The sunken battleship, whose name and class the Japanese withheld, was the first the enemy has announced as sunk in the war.

The announcement appeared in a communique, broadcast by the Tokyo radio, which went further than any before in admitting Japanese naval losses.

These, however, still were less than have been announced by the United States and the communique also tried to soften the picture of Japan's reverse in the vital struggle for the Solomons bases by claiming to have struck even heavier blows to the American squadrons than the U. S. Navy has announced.

Imperial headquarters also listed a Japanese cruiser and three destroyers sunk or damaged and seven transports damaged.

Against this total of 13 vessels sunk or damaged—compared with the U. S. navy's preliminary announcement that the total was 30 vessels sunk or damaged — the Japanese claimed the casualties inflicted by them totalled 13 or 14 vessels sunk and 11 or 12 damaged. Against the latter figure stands the U. S. navy's announcement of the loss of two light cruisers and six destroyers, with one night engagement yet to be reported.

The Japanese also announced the loss of 41 planes but claimed to have shot down or otherwise destroyed 74 or more rival aircraft.

Imperial headquarters issued its version of what was called the

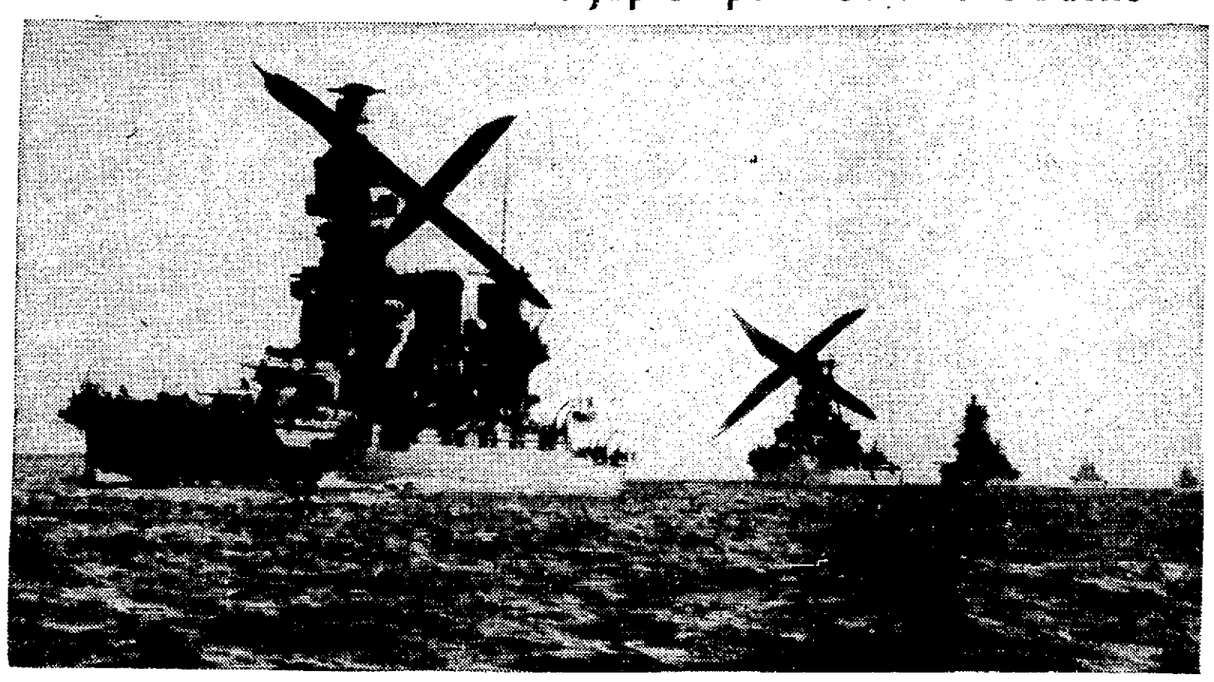
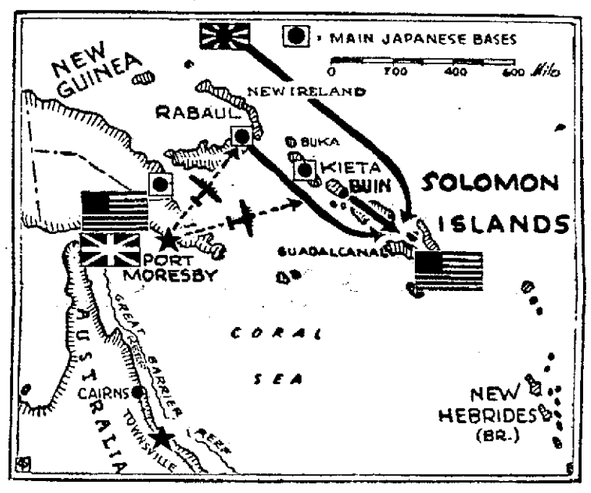
Admiral Crosses Off More Jap Ships In Solomons Battle



Navy experts now can cross off two Jap battleships, as indicated in the upper photo, when they reckon with the Nipponese fleet. The second battlewagon, presumably of the Kongo class, went down in the recent Solomons battle which cost the enemy 23 ships sunk and seven damaged. Japan's ship losses, based on official announcements by the Allies, total 365 since Pearl Harbor. It was Vice Admiral William F. Halsey, shown lower left, who directed the daring night battles in the Solomons last week. The map, lower right, indicates how the Jap flotillas moved out from Rabaul and Buin, both of which ports had been heavily bombed by planes of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command based at Port Moresby.



BLACKSOUT CITY

Smog Blanket Keeps Mansfield in Semi-Darkness.

Mansfielders went to work in semi-darkness as late as 9:30 a. m. today as a blanket of smog settled over the city area and blotted out objects 100 feet away.

The smog cloud began to lift shortly before 10 a. m., as the sun climbed higher and evaporated the excess moisture in the air.

The weatherman forecast scattered showers for today over most of Ohio and somewhat colder weather by tonight. Although skies cleared early today following heavy rainfall last night, the temperature remained above freezing.

FLIERS KILLED

Transport Plane, Crashes, Near Ohio Airfield, After Hitting Tree.

DAYTON — (U.P.) — Two United airlines airplane pilots were killed early today when their transport plane crashed one mile northeast of Patterson field, Major Kenneth Lawver, field operations officer, announced.

The dead pilots were R. K. Wagar and D. Cole. Their home addresses were not learned immediately. Their Douglas transport plane struck the top of a tree as it came in for a landing, crashed and burst into flames, Maj. Lawver said.

BOND PAYROLL PLAN APPROVED

Teacher Deductions Receive O. K. of Board; Pupils Buy $2,303 Worth.

A war bond payroll deduction plan for teachers and employes of the Mansfield schools was set up last night by the board of education, while Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller told the board that pupils in the city's 13 public schools bought $2,303 worth of bonds and stamps in October.

The voluntary plan for buying bonds with funds deducted from payrolls will be in operation in December. A minimum of $3 a month will be deducted from the mid-monthly pay check of the teacher or other employe who participates in the plan. The deduction will be made by John M. Eisaman, clerk of the board of education.

Supt. Miller, however, will urge employes who sign up for deductions to contribute at least $6.25

Rickenbacker Plans to Go Back and Finish That Trip

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — After riding the wing of a small navy scouting plane 40 miles to safety in a hospital, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker today planned to complete the trip he started 28 days ago when his plane crashed into the south Pacific.

The dramatic story of how Rickenbacker was rescued from the sea at night last week was revealed by the war department, which reported the indestructible flying ace would be hospitalized for two weeks.

The department said Rickenbacker already has expressed a desire to complete his inspection tour for Secretary of War Stimson which was interrupted for three weeks while the World War I ace and two companions drifted about the Pacific on a small rubber life raft.

Two navy fliers, Lt. W. F. Eadie of Evanston, Ill., and Aviation Radioman L. H. Boutte of Abbeville, La., found Rickenbacker and his two companions last week-end approximately 600 miles north of the Samoan islands.

For the 40-mile trip to the nearest base, Rickenbacker and Pvt. John F. Bartek were lashed to the plane's wings while Col. Hans C. Adamson was squeezed into the cockpit. How the two navy fliers carried out the rescue is reported by the following war department announcement:

"With the use of flares, Eadie and Boutte landed their Kingfisher observation scouting plane

CAROL PROTESTS

Calls Charges in Indictment of Priests 'Lies.'

MEXICO CITY —(INS)—Former King Carol of Rumania today protested the indictment in Detroit of three men, including two Rumanian priests, on charges of plotting to bring the exiled king into the United States and establish him as the head of a Rumanian government in exile.

The king labeled the charges as "lies," and said they originated with a "Mister X."

"The free Rumanian government has never ceased to make the greatest efforts to sustain the cause of the United Nations," the king said. ". . . It is completely ridiculous to accuse a movement like the free Rumanian movement of being an enemy agent of the government."

OPPOSE DUCE

Three Thousand Italians Arrested, Moscow Radio Reports.

LONDON —(INS)— Three thousand Italians have been arrested at Genoa, Turin, Milan and other cities in the past few days on charges of opposing the Mussolini regime, the Moscow radio declared today.

Army officers and prominent industrialists were among those jailed, the Moscow report said. Several hundred Fascist party officials were also arrested on charges of "connection with the opposition."

REGISTRATIONS SET FOR 18-ERS

Those Attaining That Age Since July 1 To Appear Week of Dec. 11.

Youths who have reached their 18th birthday since last July 1 will be required to register with selective service boards at three separate periods during the final three weeks of December, President Roosevelt proclaimed today.

Meanwhile, the three Richland county boards received instructions to mail questionnaires to youths from 18 to 20 who already registered. Board 2 had already mailed its questionnaires today.

Young men who became 18 during last July and August will register during the week beginning Dec. 11 and ending Dec. 17, the president said.

Those who were 18 in September and October must register the following week, and those who reached their 18th birthday in November and December will sign up during the period beginning Dec. 26 and ending Dec. 31.

The president also provided for continuous registration of all youths as they become 18 on or after Jan. 1, 1943. If the birthday falls on Sunday or holiday, they must register the following day.

Clerks of Boards 1 and 3 in the county said they would have questionnaires mailed to all 18 and 19-year-old youths already registered by Thursday. Board 2 late yesterday received its instructions to mail the blanks and had them in the mail last night.

It was not expected, how-

Eye-Witness Tells How Allied Ships Crashed Into Oran Harbor at Night

Launches Break Boom at Port Entrance, Set Off Battle.

(Editor's Note: Leo S. Disher, United Press correspondent, was aboard one of two coast guard cutters assigned to crash the defensive harbor boom at Oran, Algeria, on the night of Nov. 7. He describes in the following dispatch his own amazing escape from death and one of the most courageous military exploits of the African campaign.)

By LEO S. DISHER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

BAUDENS HOSPITAL, Oran, Algeria—(By courier to Allied headquarters)—In the dead of the deep black night of Nov. 7 two United States coast guard cutters and two trailing motor launches turned away from an Allied convoy off the North African coast.

They had been assigned to crash the defensive boom of Oran harbor and clear the way for larger ships. I was aboard one of them and by sheer luck survived what proved to be one of the most daring naval forays in American history.

Here in hospital, with nine shrapnel and bullet wounds, I can tell the story of the mission which took 620 United States troops, British commandos and British naval officers and men into Oran harbor through 1½ miles of an inferno of fire by seven French shore batteries and eight warships, including a cruiser.

20,000 AUTO OWNERS START TO REGISTER

First of Drivers Enroll For Gas Registration Books at Schools Today.

PUPILS GET HOLIDAY

Those Wanting Extra Fuel To Get Forms During Period, File Next Week.

Total war moved closer to Mansfield and Richland county today as an estimated 20,000 motorists began registering for those literally priceless basic mileage gasoline ration "A" books.

While passenger car and motorcycle owners register starting today with the A-to-G name group and continuing tomorrow with the H-S division and Friday the T-Z contingent high school and elementary pupils in the Mansfield public schools are to enjoy half holidays while teachers serve as registrars at elementary school registration sites. Registration hours in the city are 2 to 9 p. m.

Tomorrow the gasoline panel of the Richland county rationing board will announce rules for registration of supplemental gasoline rationing applicants next week. However, motorists who plan to be among the estimated 15,000 who will seek additional motor fuel can obtain application blanks when they register during the three-day period for A books but must present these applications at the rationing board or wherever else might be designated during next week, excepting Thursday, or on Monday, Nov. 30.

Rationing of gasoline will start Dec. 1.

Persons still having a sixth tire which hasn't been picked up by the Railway Express agency may obtain their A books this week by signing a form assigning title to the excess tire or tires to the government. The Office of Price Administration modified its earlier ruling which would bar an applicant for having more than five tires when the express agency reported being swamped with pick-up orders.

At village and rural Richland schools the registration hours will be from 4 to 8 p. m.

Each motorist registering for an A book will be given the cou-

SEEKING RAISE

School Engineers and Firemen Send Request to Board.

A request for more pay and better working hours for engineers, firemen, and other mechanical workers in the Mansfield school system was under advisement today by the board of education.

R. J. Jamieson, Cleveland, assistant international representative of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers, went before the board at its meeting last night with the appeal. He said a large number of Mansfield engineers already have gone to Marion, Sandusky, and other war production centers to take jobs and others probably would go, creating a labor shortage in Mansfield.

While H. W. Arlin, president of the school board, said an immediate pay increase was doubtful, he agreed to study the problem with the board and to make a check of the number of hours the schools' engineers and custodians are working.

Germans Boast They're Ready As Allies Near

British Parachutists Land at Important Airdromes In Tunisia as U. S. Air Troops Poise at Border; Axis Planes Mass In Sicily.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The ministry of economic warfare announced today that the Allies had acquired between 200,000 and 300,000 tons of merchant shipping as a result of their entry into North Africa.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—Reports from Spain today said that several American columns are driving across the waist of Tunisia in a pincers movement designed to cut off Axis forces in the Bizerte-Tunis area from any possible reinforcement by Marshal Rommel's troops in Tripolitania.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Germans boasted today that they were established and ready to fight for the important Tunisian naval base of Bizerte against a powerful Allied force whose advance guard was already deep in Tunisia, where British parachutists had landed at key airdromes and American parachutists were poised on the frontier.

The Tunis radio went off the air after giving the explanation Monday morning that its silence was intended to save power, and this suggested a possibility that parachute operations might even have been brought close to the Tunisian capital which the Axis had announced was in its hands.

Using the Nazi-controlled Paris radio as their mouthpiece, the Germans announced today that they had captured Bizerte and established themselves firmly there. The broadcast said nothing of Tunis, whose occupation along with Bizerte had been reported in Axis communiques two days ago. And the use of the word captured seemed to refute the Nazi propaganda line that they moved in "to defend their French compatriots in Tunisia," and met only cooperation from the French.

British parachutists were taken to their Tunisian airdrome objectives in American transport planes escorted by fighters.

The German-controlled Paris radio described the Nazi-held Bizerte naval base as "very well fortified."

In one broadcast it said Berlin military circles declared that no actual fighting had occurred between Axis and British-American forces moving into the French protectorate. In another, it reported a clash between Allied troops and French colonials in south Tunisia.

Allied sources were silent on the progress of the advance into Tunisia.

In Algeria and Morocco the French, administering their own civil affairs, were cooperating closely with Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's military command.

Reuters reported that a Morocco broadcast said Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark had announced the internment of some high Algerian officials on evidence that they were impeding the Allied effort in North Africa.

Eleventh-hour Axis efforts to save at least a slice of North Africa were reflected in reports of the massing of German and Italian submarines and warplanes in probable prelude to huge scale sea and air battles.

British sources estimated that 1,000 Axis planes had been rushed to Sicily, Sardinia, southern Italy

TEMPORARY: FDR Says Pact With Darlan Only 'Expedient'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Free and Fighting Frenchmen had President Roosevelt's categorical assurance today that political arrangements made with Admiral Jean Darlan in North Africa were "only a temporary expedient," dictated by military necessity.

In a statement obviously designed to allay mounting unrest over the part being played by Darlan, who was a Vichy collaborationist until he was captured by American troops, the president said the "present temporary arrangement" in North Africa was "justified solely by the stress of battle."

The statement drew prompt expressions of gratification from Fighting French spokesmen both here and abroad.

"I thoroughly understand and approve the feeling in the United States and Great Britain and among all the other United Nations," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that in view of the history of the past two years no permanent arrangement should be made with Admiral Darlan. . . .

"We are opposed to Frenchmen who support Hitler and the Axis."

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, had declared in London that he and his followers could not accept any arrangement that would "in effect" set up a Vichy regime in North Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt said the "temporary arrangement" already had accomplished two military objec-

DESTROYED: Axis Loses 485 Out of 500 Tanks In Africa

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO — Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of British forces in the middle east, said today that only 15 of 500 Axis tanks in Egypt escaped destruction or capture by the British Eighth army, but he predicted that Field Marshal Rommel's shattered forces would make a stand near El Agheila, Libya.

As Alexander spoke, the British eighth army was within 70 miles of Bengasi and pursuing Rommel on a wide front, the Cairo communique reported.

The British commander said Rommel had "strong prepared defensive positions" in the El Agheila area and was "most likely to make a temporary stand" there.

"Of 500 Axis tanks estimated to have been in the battle area only 15 escaped," Gen. Alexander said.

He warned that there may be further heavy fighting in North Africa and said "the enemy is groggy, but not knocked out."

"The battle will not be ours until the enemy is lying senseless," he declared. "He is a good fighter and will keep up his rearguard action in an effort to hold us back as long as there is a possibility of his getting reinforce-

Begin Early Study Habit For Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

As soon as your school child gets his first homework assignment, you should begin cultivating good study habits in him.

You need to see that he goes at this work at a regular time and place. When the child of 12 or of 17 should begin homework will vary with the family program. In some cases part or all the homework might be done before the evening meal if that comes late.

For most children, the best time is right after the evening meal or after the girl or boy has done, or helped to do, the dishes.

Many children and youth will fool around for one or more hours after dinner listening to the radio, visiting or having his friends in or just killing time. Some high school youths, indeed, don't settle down at their lessons till it is time they were in bed.

See that during the regular homework hour the child is there and no guests are in except as in a few instances another youth comes to join seriously in the homework. See that no one in the family disturbs the student.

While a separate, quiet room may be an advantage to some for study, it will encourage fooling and daydreaming. The average school child and youth in the United States can't have a separate room for homework. He can learn to concentrate right in the same room with the family. Succeeding at doing so, he is fitted best for life.

If your child on certain evenings reports he has no homework, require that he spend a regular period at serious reading in order to keep alive the home-study habit and escape temptation to report no homework, contrary to fact.

When your child asks you to spell a word for him, glady do so in order to encourage him in a good spelling conscience. When you do help him, be very calm and patient. You might help an older child by reading to him from some of his hard textbooks and helping him turn the material into brief words of his own. If he is a poor reader, encourage him to practice a few minutes daily reading from materials far easier than those of his school books.

Q. Would you require a child of 12 to go to church or Sunday school?

A. Yes: in case both parents went regularly.

Chili Con Carne Will Solve Meal Problem Simply

By BETSY NEWMAN

When we want a meat dish that is nourishing, stimulating to the appetite and inexpensive, we may turn now to chili con carne. There are many different recipes, some with tomatoes, some without. I am giving you a simple recipe today which will serve six, and good for the main dish at dinner, for luncheon, or for a Sunday night supper, with suitable relishes and other foods.

Today's Menu.
Chili con Carne
Boiled Rice, Kidney Beans or Potatoes
Pickles Olives Celery
Creamed Cabbage
Barbara's Graham Loaf Tea

Barbara's Graham Loaf.

½ lb. graham crackers
¼ lb. marshmallows
½ cup nut meats
1 cup dates
½ cup heavy cream
Dash salt
tsp. vanilla

Crush graham crackers, cut marshmallows in quarters, chop nuts and cut dates into small pieces. Beat cream fairly stiff, add salt and vanilla, fold in crackers, marshmallows, nutmeats and dates and pack into loaf cake pan. Chill at least 24 hours. To serve, unmold and spread ends, sides and top with additional whipped cream. Serves 6.

Chili Con Carne.

2 lbs. bottom round steak
½ cup chopped suet
2 Tbsps. olive oil
½ cup chopped onion
2 tsps. salt
3 cup boiling water
2 Tbsps. chili powder
1 clove garlic, chopped fine

Cut meat into small cubes and add chopped suet and salt. Cook onion in olive oil, and when light brown add meat, stirring as it heats. When meat has browned, add boiling water, chili powder and garlic, cover and simmer 2½ hours. Serves 6.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Olina's hand again, at my father's question, began a fluttering ascent to her lips, but with a gallant rallying of her regal poise, she clasped her hands tightly in her lap and put a quiet query.

"Will it be safe to bring him here?" she asked. "He says he is a hunted man. I should not like to endanger him."

"I am not going to bring him here," my father said gravely, "although if I did he would be safe enough while in my care. But if my conjecture concerning his identity is correct it is vital, both for his safety and for larger issues, that I meet him before the week is out. So I trust you will give me your gracious permission to act for you."

Trusts All to Spencer.

"Oh, of course," Olina said quickly. "Do anything you think best. I—I am greatly relieved to have the decision taken out of my hands. Even if I were conscious of this danger which he and you say is surrounding Mama and me, I would not like to feel that I was endangering this chivalrous stranger by sending him that message."

My father looked at her keenly as she finished.

"'Stranger'," he repeated. "Then you have no conjecture as to the identity of this unknown friend?"

Olina flushed hotly, and shot me a glance of mute appeal.

"I am afraid Olina is still too bewildered to grasp the full significance of this message," I said. "Just before you came in, I told her why I was sure the writer of her queer fan letter must be her old playmate, King Georges of Trees, although he no longer is a king, and his country is a volcano. While she had the same conjecture, she cannot see how it is possible that he escaped death over there."

"It is indeed a miracle if he is alive and unharmed," my father said gravely, "but I believe he is in this country—this city—and that he is the man who wishes you to insert this personal if you think you need him."

Olina's face was suddenly lighted with tremulous hope.

"May I tell Mama what you have said?" she faltered. "She will be so glad. She—she was always very fond of Georges."

"That is what I wish you to do at once," he said. "I must have her consent, of course, and that of your father, before I insert this personal, which incidentally I shall not do for a day or two, while I wait for a certain development. But please ask one of them to telephone me, saying simply, 'I am satisfied with the arrangement you propose.' That will give me the go-ahead signal I wish, and I can act promptly when the need arises."

"I will go over and tell Mama at once," Olina said, rising. "I—I hope you will let me come over to see you again Aunt Madge—soon."

Work for Madge.

For she had not had a chance to tell me the story of the time when she, Noel, Mary and Georges were romantically involved in betrothals which, fortunately for all four of them, did not result in international marriages.

"Of course," I told her cordially, then added, as I caught a warning flash from my father's eyes, "I will telephone you the first moment I am free and can reach you."

"I shall have no engagement except the theater until I have seen you," she said earnestly.

Then father summoned Adams from the next suite and sent Olina, in his charge, back to the Veritzen apartment.

"I am sorry to have to disappoint her," my father said when she had left, "but I am afraid she will not be able to see you for a day or two at least. I have work for you."

BRIDGEWATER, England—(AP) — Ninety-year-old Henry Allen and his wife, 76-year-old Mrs. Harriet Amelia Ewers have returned to their Somerset home after Allen's fourth marriage and his wife's second.

Breathing Properly Aids Health

(MME QUI VIVE)

Wise Mama Nature so arranged the human mechanism that we breath automatically. Don't have to give the matter a thought. A grand idea. Otherwise some of our lazy sisters would leave this troubled world. As it is there are many shallow breathers who would have brighter eyes, better digestions, more colorful complexions if they would learn to air-wash their lungs.

Professional singers know the benefits of proper breathing, the effect on the voice, what it does for poise and grace. They draw in the air until the diaphragm lifts and the chest expands to its full limit. They know that through proper breathing one experiences a sense of exhileration. That fact is easily explained. Filling the lungs with fresh air stimulates the blood streams. With blood streams galloping as they should, the flesh glows, cheeks redden.

You can do your breathing exercises at odd moments, if you wish. We have to utilize odd moments these busy days. No doubt you are doing more walking than ever before: saving the precious tires of the family bus. Walking is as good an exercise as you can find. American women have done so little of it, it is a wonder they haven't lost the use of their legs.

Wear sensible, low-heeled shoes: they are fashionable now, as they should have been long ago. Pull up your backbone, keep the head on the level, let the arms swing easily.

While talking five brisk steps, inhale deeply. While taking the next five, exhale slowly. During the next five, rest. This system is wonderfully refreshing. Also, it keeps you going. You don't loiter. Sauntering is not exercising.

Place the weight of the body on that part of the foot that is directly below the ankle. Don't come down on heel or toes: distribute the body weight.

Breathing properly contributes not only to grace but to good posture. You can't lap up much air if your shoulders are thrown forward, chest contracted.

Five minutes of deep breathing every morning—stand before an open window when you do it—will not only rout stagnant air from the lungs but will give the whole physical system a sense of well being. You will be aware of renewed vitality and zest.

Before going to sleep, lie on the back, clasp your hands behind at the waistline and try costal breathing, which means lifting the chest high and expanding the lungs fully. Inhale slowly through the nostrals, exhale through the lips with a whistling sound.

Diaphragmatic breathing tightens slack abdominal muscles, slims down the waist, stimulates the functions of the intestional tract.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DO IT WITH BRAINS

OPIE, A GREAT artist in his day, was once asked by a student painter: "With what do you mix your colors?" His answer was: "With brains, sir." That is a good idea for bridge, too, in the use of perfectly sound standard plays, such as splitting honors. Sometimes a brief examination of the dummy will show you that splitting your honors will simplify a situation for the declarer and make it certain he takes an extra trick in the suit, whereas ducking forces upon him a guess he is likely to make wrongly.

Various things happened on this deal in a nine-table duplicate, most East-West pairs getting set in 2-No Trumps or 3-No Trumps. At two tables, however, East's bid of 2-Hearts was treated as a sign-off and left. One declarer made the contract, and the other was beaten a trick.

At both of the 2-Hearts tables, the play began in similar vein, the club K drawing the 3 from North and causing a shift to the diamond 5, the Q forcing the K. Both Easts then led the heart 2 toward the Q, the K winning and the diamond J forcing the A. The heart Q was scored, the club Q led to the A and the diamond 10 returned for a ruff by the heart 4. The heart A won at both tables, and then came the difference, when East led the spade 8.

One South split his honors, playing the spade 10, and the Q forced the A. That was the only spade lost by that declarer, as on the next spade round, after winning the returned club with the J, he finessed the spade 9. The K, now top, forced North to ruff with his heart 10, East getting the last trick with the heart 8.

The other South saw that covering that spade 8 with the 10 would almost surely tip off East to finesse on the next round, so he played low on it. The declarer then went up with the Q from dummy to force the A after East won the club return with the J and led the spade 7. South now properly split his honors, the 10 forcing the K. When the spade 9 was returned, North figured his partner for the J, so discarded his last club instead of ruffing. South won the trick, sure enough, and his diamond return was ruffed then by North's heart 10, East being obliged to under-ruff with the 8 and thus losing the final trick and his contract as well.

What is the soundest defense against 3-No Trumps by West on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, Nov. 19.

Possibly a rather dull day, with matters moving along the line of least resistance. Adhere to routine developments, but with amiability and poise and not impulsively or carried away by erratic or irregular tendencies or irrepressible urges. There may be a hint of some friction, possibly a disappointment or estrangement in the purely private relations, domestic, social or affectional. It would be well to keep a calm attitude and point of view in such contacts or dealings.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a rather colorless year, with matters moving along in routine grooves. It might be advisable to work up a little energy or ambition, mainly by attention to details or the inaugurations of new methods or systems. Maintain calm and restraint in all private relations which seem beset with inharmony, discord, disappointment or estrangements of a sudden and unpredictable nature. Guard against erratic, unconventional or impulsive behavior.

A child born on this day may be talented and original although disposed to be erratic, impulsive and self-indulgent, thereby jeopardizing its sucess and happiness.

Boy Friends Abundant In Tech School

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Many girls who register at school or college may not give a thought to the sex of their fellow students. They have no wish other than to follow the institution's rules, achieve satisfactory grades in all their studies, and graduate with a scholastic standing that will make their parents proud of them.

On the other hand, there may be girls, however demure their pretty faces, however innocent the expression of their large and lovely eyes, who are aware that the presence of boys in a school or college somehow makes a difference. They may even consider that it makes an agreeable difference.

Such girls as these may believe that the ages at which one enters college is also a very good age to settle one's life problem by becoming engaged. Why delay it until there's danger of being called an "old maid"? they ask. Why burden a careworn father with one's support? Why not take advantage of the youthful bloom that older people say so many envious things about?

These thoughtful young creatures naturally look about for situations in which they are surrounded by boys of their own age. It is now revealed that just such conditions exist at the City College School of Technology, in New York City. Three years ago it was discovered that the school's charter had a loophole through which girls could gain admittance, all students up to that time having been masculine.

So, one by one, serious, studious young women presented themselves. There are now sixteen of them, including the five freshmen who registered this autumn. The present ratio is one girl to every 375 men, which is a decidedly noteworthy state of things. Within these three years, several student marriages have already taken place.

GRAND JURORS IN CRAWFORD INDICT SIX

Richland County Youths Face Arson and Destruction of Property Charges.

BUCYRUS—Twenty two witnesses were examined during investigation of nine cases by the Crawford county grand jury, which returned six bills of indictment Tuesday after being in session for two days.

Included in the indictments were two joint bills against Floyd H Albright, Melvin G. Bigin and Daniel Rabold, jr., Richland county youths, charging arson and malicious destruction of property. The charges arise from a Halloween celebration in which the trio allegedly left a trail of destruction in the eastern section of Crawford county, including a burned abandoned house.

Other indictments were returned against Roger Pence, Galion two bills charging larceny involving the theft of bicycles from Jack Guy and Dorothy Stowe.

Daniel C. Barnett of Galion was indicted on a charge of shooting with intent to kill as the result of an affadavit filed by his wife, Hazel, October 2.

Charles Brooks, Marion, colored, was indicted on an assault and battery charge as a result of a charge filed by F. P. Robinson, August 24.

Recommendations that the front porch of the jail be repaired and painted; that window frames of the jail and the juvenile room of the jail painted were made by the grand jury.

Harold Strauch of Galion, served as foreman of the jury.

ACTS TO HIKE MILLERSBURG EMPLOYES' PAY

Council Acts on Resolution Looking Toward Wage Increase Jan. 1.

MILLERSBURG—The Millersburg council Monday evening instituted proceedings which will pave the way for an increase in pay for village workers, supervisors and the village marshal, Jan. 1.

A resolution was given its first meeting regulating the price to be paid by the village for four classifications of village employes and one official.

Prices as contained in the resolution are as follows: common labor from present rate of 40 cents per hour to 45 cents per hour; for work at the same time which calls for the supervision of a job, from 45 cents to 60 cents per hour; street foreman, 55 cents per hour.

The resolution contains the clause that the marshal may be employed by the council as street foreman and pay for such will be in addition to the yearly salary fixed by council; after Jan. 1 the marshal may be raised from his salary of $900 per year to $960 per year; he may receive as street foreman the sum of $24 per month, to be paid on an hourly basis, making a total expenditure for his work of $104 per month; in addition he is eligible to collect his per cent of fee of fines assessed by violation of the state law.

Fables From the Forties: The other night, after the performance of "Beat the Band," Susan Miller, the show's ingenue, was visited backstage by a kindly-looking, middle-aged woman who introduced herself as "Mrs. Carter, mother-in-law of the late Marilyn Miller." She said she had seen "Beat the Band" several times because Susan reminded her so much of Marilyn, who had been so dear to her.

After a few minutes' conversation Mrs. Carter took a gold locket from her bag and handed it to the young actress. Inside was a delicate portrait of the golden-haired Broadway star who died so young.

"It is one of my most cherished possessions," the woman said, "because Marilyn wore it. I want you to have it for good luck because you remind me of her.

Then she left.

And this is the punch line of the story: Susan Miller's real name is Marilyn Miller.

Finally the actress asked:

"What's troubling you, Mr. Nelson?"

"Well," said the man who runs the complex WPB, "what I'd like to know is this: Do you wipe a plate clockwise—or counter-clockwise?"

Chandler Wants Meeting To Decide on Anti-Poll Tax Measure at Once.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Albert Chandler (D.), Ky., today proposed the calling of a caucus of senate Democrats on the anti-poll tax bill as southern members grew firmer in their intention to filibuster the measure to its death.

With the party in congress split over the issue and personal animosities developing among Democrats, Chandler suggested that the caucus be called so that a decision can be reached either to bring the bill to a vote or drop it.

At the same time there was talk privately among senators of amending the senate's time-honored unlimited debate rule so that the majority can be given power to break filibusters.

"This situation might well lead to an effort to change the rules, although there is no defined movement that way just now," said Chandler.

Democratic senate leader Barkley planned to try again today to reach a vote on his proposed motion for consideration of the bill. Barkley indicated that if the measure is ever before the senate for consideration, he will seek cloture to limit debate and thus make a vote possible.

The upper branch spent a futile five hours yesterday with Sen. Russell (D), Ga., leading in a series of parliamentary maneuvers against consideration of the bill.

Sen. Burton (R.), Ohio, active in the fight for the bill, declared that the battle for passage would go on until the bitter end.

"There is no other major legislation pending so we will continue to press it," he said.

Burton saw no chance for cloture, saying that many members who favor the anti-poll tax bill are opposed to curbing the rule of unlimited debate.

Up and Down the Street

Mansfield's first air raid siren was placed atop City Hall yesterday afternoon. Ernest Adams, city electrician, and his installation crew hoisted a two-horsepower siren to the roof of the building where it will be placed on the police radio tower, to be one of several to serve the business and industrial area. Six five-horse and four two-horsepower sirens have been delivered to the Civilian Defense council and will be located so as to warn the entire city and suburban area in event of enemy attack by air or otherwise. The sirens will get their first tryout on the evening of Dec. 6, G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, having ordered a test mobilization of all defense groups in celebration of the first anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Harry Schlegel of the city engineer's office today was recalling his artillery service days of World War I—those first days when a recruit stampeded the mess line to get to the front, only to find the line about faced and the last man becoming first for chow issue. Monday at lunchtime Harry went to the telephone office to pay his bill. Servicer Fred B. Wolff had just stepped away from a pay window, and, seeing Harry, suggested he join a short line awaiting at an adjoining window. Harry stepped to the short line as many more added to the one he just left. Then, to his great chagrin, the receiving clerk hung out a sign, "Other Window, Please," and Harry was caught at the end of the first line, which wasn't reversed this time.

Carolyn Cox, recently appointed clerk-stenographer of the police department who also serves in the traffic bureau office, thinks some rude member of the force is kidding her. On Monday she received a telephone call from a man whose cracked voice bespoke age. He told of receiving in his mail a notice to call at the bureau and pay a parking fine. "I haven't owned a car for 12 years," the man said. Confused, Carolyn asked, "What is your license number, please," whereupon the caller explained, "I'm 84 years old and been in a wheel chair for years. But if its nice tomorrow I'll come down and see you." Despite yesterday's rain Carolyn was still looking forward to the "blind date."

CITES BOWMAN AND NEWMAN OVERCROWDING

Proposal For Survey Shelved Till Next Year; Discuss Program After War.

Looking to the post-war period, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller last night proposed that the Mansfield board of education employ Dr. T. C. Holy of Ohio State university to survey the elementary building needs in the city with a view to providing more building facilities after the war.

The board decided, however, that since there can be no new building until the war is over and that date in decidedly indefinite, there is plenty of time to make a survey. No action was taken at the board's meeting.

Board President H. W. Arlin said the idea was a good one, but he suggested that it be brought up again next year.

"The only answer is new building, and we're not going to do any of that now," Arlin said.

Supt. Miller pointed out that buildings in the northern half of the city, particularly the Bowman and Newman schools, are overcrowded and that a marked increase in elementary enrollment could be expected in five or six years as a result of the war.

"We are now transporting 232 pupils in the Bowman school district, including 180 to the Bowman school and 52 to the Hedges building, while 82 pupils are being transported to the Newman school," the superintendent said. The number transported in the Bowman district is larger than the enrollment of any of the four smallest elementary buildings, he added.

A building program immediately after the war would provide employment during the change-over period for labor and at the same time provide ample school facilities for the future, Supt. Miller said.

Dr. Holy made the survey in 1938 which resulted in the construction of the new John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed junior high school buildings and the shop addition at Senior high school.

OFFICIAL OHIO VOTE REVEALED

Count Shows 1,829,937 Ballots Cast, Bricker Piles Up 1,086,937 Total.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker, (R) in winning a third term as Ohio's chief executive, polled 1,086,937 votes to 709,599 for John McSweeney (D) of Wooster—a majority of 377,338, the secretary of state's official figures showed today.

The official count for Bricker varied only .102 of one per cent from totals compiled by the Associated Press election night and that for McSweeney varied only .196 of one per cent.

Persons voting in the Nov. 3 election totaled 1,829,837, although all did not ballot in any one race.

Official totals for other major races were:

Lieutenant governor—Paul M. Herbert (R) 1,018,504; George D. Nye (D) 647,539.

Secretary of state — Edward Hummel (R) 926,523; John L. Sweeney (D) 738,175.

Treasurer of state — Don H. Ebright (R) 999,665; Robert S. Cox (D) 645,630.

Attorney general — Thomas J. Herbert (R) 983,732; Herbert S. Duffy (D) 665,131.

Congress-at-large — George H. Bender (R) 945,995; Stephen S. Young (D) 717,692.

Supreme court—(Jan. 1 term) Roy Williams 808,342, William C. Dixon 474,245; (Jan. 2 term) Edward C. Turner 875,254; Willis W. Metcalf 363,807; (unexpired term) Charles S. Bell 754,578, T. J. Duffy 537,342.

Constitutional amendment — Yes, 954,704; No, 448,981.

$207,316 KRAUSE ESTATE UNDER ATTACK IN WILL CONTEST SUIT

The $207,316 estate of the late Mrs. Lola D. Krause of Mansfield, today was involved in an action filed in Richland county common pleas court contesting the will under which the property was to be distributed.

The suit was filed in behalf of four cousins of the late Mrs. Krause, LeMoyne Porch and Mrs. Jennie B. Hickox of Mansfield, Walter Craft of Chicago, and Gaylord Craft of Beloit, Wis.

Defendants in the suit are Charles Bellman, executor, and 76 other heirs, legatees, and devisees of the estate.

Under the will, filed for probate last May, the First Presbyterian church, Mansfield, would have received the bulk of the estate, or approximately $137,000. Outright bequests totaling $18,000 were made to the church and its affiliated organizations and the church was to receive the residue after other bequests were paid.

Mrs. Krause left about $60,000 in small bequests to relatives and friends. Also named as legatees were the First Lutheran church, Missionary society of the First Christian church, Wooster college, Wittenberg college, and other religious and educational organizations.

The Wooster college bequest was $10,000, while Mrs. Krause left Wittenberg college $5,000, and the First Lutheran church, $3,000.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs are C. J. Anderson and J. V. Will, Mansfield, and Vance Stuller of Bellville.

Urges Planting Of Castor Beans As Big War Crop

CINCINNATI —(INS)— J. Edmund Good, vice president of the Woburn Degreasing company, today proposed extensive plantings of castor beans in the United States as a much needed farm crop and war material.

Declaring that castor oil is much more important to the American war effort than coffee, Good told the National Farm Chemurgic council such plantings would supplement imports from Brazil so that our production of war machinery will not be halted.

Good explained that castor oil "makes it possible to fly our planes to the great heights required by military necessity" and is needed for hydraulic brakes on all mechanized equipment like gun carriages, airplane landing gear, tanks and motor trucks.

Another speaker told the council that American farmers, partly through their own efforts, never again would have to depend on rubber sources 1,000 miles away.

M. F. Taggart, research director for a South Send, Ind., varnish company, pointed out that the war may result in the closing of markets to Malayan rubber.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — We're dining out today, 'way down south in Paramount's "Dixie."

We're dining out in 1859 in a cafe of Old New Orleans, with a flock of extras and bit-players and Bing Crosby, who is one of the reasons Paramount can dine out any old night this year and the particular reason these extras et als are getting a free meal.

Coons

This gives us a chance to find out what extras, commonly pictured as half-starved pillar-to-posters, really think about free meals in pictures.

They think it depends on the meal. They're pretty choosey—especially in Technicolor.

THERE'S a direct relation between Technicolor and the extra's appetite. That's because color pictures require toasty-hot lighting, and you should meet a plate of fresh salmon after it has gone through several hours of tropical heat. You should also smell it.

Our meal today comes close to the extra's idea of a real free meal. The canapes are cream cheese—real on real crackers. They could be, and sometimes are, anchovies or imitation caviar or liverwurst, all decidedly aromatic after the fourth "take." They could be painted plaster of Paris, or "bride's biscuits." The latter, in the extra's code, are a breach of ethics, an unfair labor practice, ersatz devilry compounded. Cream cheese is edible.

The entree is chicken, hot. Cold sliced turkey would be better, but hot chicken even when cold is palatable. Our potatoes are shoestring, which stand up well under the supreme test: "How's it taste when cold?" To an extra cold mashed potatoes are ugh-ugh. Our peas are hot, too, though by the second "take" they're lukewarm—in which state they remain, some extras assurred me, the rest of the day because of the arc lights' warmth. Those lights are appetite-wreckers, in fact, not hot enough to keep hot food warm, but hot enough to spoil the food.

WHEN the director, Eddie Sutherland, calls "All right, keep it alive," everybody is supposed to dive in hungrily. After the first few "takes" it's pure acting, done gamely for the pay check. We're lucky today (by the extras' gustatory code) because each table's centerpiece is a dish of fresh fruit—pears and grapes. Desserts of pastry or ice cream (cold mashed potatoes) soon become repulsive, but fresh fruit can be filched between scenes.

Cigarettes complicate the delicate problem of the atmosphere's tastes in food. Some extras insist on crushing out butts on their plates or down the hollow stems of wine glasses. This has been known to infuriate prop men so thoroughly that they dish up the next helping right on top of the ashes—which may or may not be a tip for sensitive hostesses.

"There'll always be a Captain Secrest!"

That's the battle cry of the roisterous rooters of Rochester U. as they emulate the war cry of all good Britons: "There'll always be an England."

And the roisterous R's of old R. U. are indulging these days in a bit of early Thanksgiving that the Secrest reign is to continue for a year or two at least. And if Galion, Ohio, can send them some more of the same, that will be okay for the R. R.'s of old R. U.

Comes the word from Rochester that Galion's Jim Secrest, only a sophomore but the leading touchdown scorer of the East all season, has just been named co-captain of the Rochester football team for 1943, succeeding his brother, Senior Dick Secrest.

Dick and Dick Kramer of Butler, Pa., have shared the captaincy this fall, and Jim and Irving (Bud) Baybutt of Rochester have been named co-captains for 1943.

They'll stand and sing a hymn to him,
The Secrest known as Touchdown Jim.

Galion Jim Secrest, only 19 years old and still eligible as far as age is concerned to play high school football back in his native Ohio, has now scored 133 points, far and away the best mark of any eastern ball toter.

He has tallied 22 of his team's 36 touchdowns, and has added one conversion for an average of 16.6 points per game. And he has averaged 8.5 yards each time he carried the ball from scrimmage, and snagged 19 passes for a total of 351 yards.

* * *

But Jim is very modest about it all.

Here's the way he explains his success at eluding enemy tacklers on eastern gridirons:

"The other guys block—all I do is run."

You can just hear Jim telling a blocking teammate as they head toward the goal line:

Put the blocks to him, son,
All I gotta do is run.

The fact that Coach Al Fendrick of Madison high school's Rams will smoke an occasional cigaret or two is no secret to his condition keeping athletes.

Al is proudly displaying a combination cigaret case and lighter on which is engraved: "The Team—1942."

Yes, it's a present from his Rampaging Rams of the past football season.

Buckeyes Retain Statistics Lead

CHICAGO — (AP) — No matter what happens Saturday when Ohio State squares off against Michigan for the Western Conference football championship, the Buckeyes are virtually a cinch to carry off most of the statistical honors within the Big Ten.

* * *

Conference figures released today show that Ohio State, with only the Michigan game to go, has averaged more yards from running alone (301) than any other team has recorded by both running and passing. And on defense Coach Paul Brown's team is second only to Minnesota.

* * *

Moreover, the Buckeyes have the two leading scorers in Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus and three of the top five ground gainers in Fekete (who is No. 1), Sarringhaus and Les Horvath.

BAUGH TAKES LEAD IN LEATHER TOSSING

CHICAGO —(AP)— Washington's Sammy Baugh, who lost forward passing honors in the National Football league to Cecil Isbell of Green Bay last year, apparently does not intend to let it happen again this season.

Baugh completed 19 of 26 attempts against New York Sunday and official figures released today showed him leading the league in the number of completions, with 108, and also in percentage of completions, with a .584 mark.

Isbell, however, continued to lead in touchdown passes, having thrown 18 to Baugh's 13.

MAY USE FROSH

PITTSBURGH — (INS)— Coach Charley Bowser, head mentor of the University of Pittsburgh football team, indicated today that freshmen may crack a varsity box score for the first time this weekend when the Panthers play Penn State.

Wolves, Bucks Plan T-Party

Fast Backfields Clash In Traditional Battle.

By JOHN COLBURN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A gridiron "T" party is on tap here Saturday when the powerful elevens of Michigan and Ohio State collide in Ohio's horseshoe stadium.

Michigan and Ohio already have made limited use of the "T" but in Saturday's contest they may depend on it to a greater extent as they resort to speed and deception in an effort to out-maneuver each other's powerful lines.

Speed is paramount for successful operation of the "T" but these two old rivals have plenty of swift and may run each other ragged for 60 minutes before the anticipated crowd of 80,000.

In Michigan's backfield are Capt. Ceithaml at quarterback, Tom Kuzma and Paul White, halfbacks, and Sophomore Bob Wiese at fullback. "Ohio has Capt. George Lynn at quarterback, Paul Saringhaus and Les Horvath at halfbacks and Sophomore Gene Fekete in the fullback spot.

Ceithalm, like Lynn, hears the brunt of the blocking assignments in addition to selecting plays and each is a key cog in the "T" attack.

Ohio State got a look at Michigan plays in a lengthy, muddy practice session yesterday and also worked on some new plays which the Bucks hope to spring against the Wolverines.

Up at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Coach Fritz Crisler dished out new plays and warned his varsity that the new formations might mean the difference between victory and defeat.

Coach Paul Brown of Ohio said there was little hope that "Touchdown Tommy" James would be in shape by Saturday. The speedy halfback, who alternated with Sarringhaus, suffered a shoulder separation in the Illinois game last Saturday.

Brown announced, however, that Bill Durtschi of Galion, out with a knee injury since the Southern California game five weeks ago, would be ready to play if needed.

Saturday's Michigan-Ohio tilt will be the 39th between the schools in a rivalry dating back to 1897.

Michigan has a big edge, with 25 wins to 10 for Ohio. Three games have been ties. 25 have been shutouts. Ohio tied Michigan 20-20 last year.

This year, Ohio has won seven games and lost one to Wisconsin. Michigan lost two of its eight games, bowing to Minnesota and the Iowa Seahawks. Ohio has scored 275 points to 95 for the opposition and Michigan has run up 186 to 99.

COUNTY CAGE LOOP DECIDES TO OPERATE

Superintendents of schools in the Richland county high school basketball league yesterday decided to go just as far as possible in carrying out their regular league schedule this winter.

It was agreed that the staging of preliminary games will be up to the host school, and that the general use of reserve teams for preliminary tilts will be discontinued because of the transportation problem.

Ritz Boosts League Margin

Scores Shutout Win In Transportation Loop.

Ritz Nite club boosted its lead in the Transportation bowling league with a 3-0 win over Coolridge Golf club at Colony alleys. Ritz now has a four game margin over Frank Williams and Schenk Auto, tied for second place.

* * *

Les Shields hit two straight games of 236 for Silver King Tractors, and then dropped off to 171 in the finale but wound up with high total of 643.

* * *

He took both high game and high total honors for the league.

Hockey Players Give Eyes to Camera

Want Winner For Bowl Tilt

Georgia, Georgia Tech Victor Conceded Edge.

PASADENA, Calif.—(U.P.)—A reported change in West Coast sentiment indicated today that the winner of the Georgia-Georgia Tech game on Nov. 28 would be invited to play in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Pacific Coast officials refused to divulge any action taken in their secret meeting Sunday but authorities close to the subject believe the Coast moguls have decided to discard their former practice of waiting until the season is over before choosing an eastern opponent to meet the western representative.

The last obstacle to the staging of the game was removed yesterday when Col. H. E. Beal of the Western Defense command announced that the army "has no objections" to the contest.

Conference officials are certain that the winner of the clash between the two southern Titans—both undefeated and untied—will receive bids to other bowls and feel that the first bid submitted will get most serious consideration.

Georgia has been to the coast twice—in 1931 and 1933 against the University of Southern California. Tech appeared in the Rose Bowl game of 1929, defeating the University of California, 2-7, in a game made famous by Roy Riegal's wrong-way run.

Three "possibilites" for western honors in the Rose Bowl are UCLA, Washington State and the University of Southern California.

The clearance from the army does away with any necessity of transferring the game to another site. Last Jan. 1 the spectacle was shirted to Durham, N. C., where Oregon State defeated Duke.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Football isn't all fun dept.: A few weeks ago you may have read that when the Woodward, Iowa, high school football coach answered Uncle Sam's call, the town parson took over his coaching duties. . . . Now comes a letter from Rev. "Dad" Krenmyre reporting that after Woodward had a fair season, someone dug up an old rule requiring a coach to teach two other subjects. . . . Since the parson merely was working for nothing, paying someone to take care of some of his other duties and nursing more sore muscles than most people have good ones, he couldn't fill that requirement. . . . As a result, all of Woodward's games were ordered forfeited and even the three teams that beat "Dad's" school lost credit for it when the official scores were changed to 1-0. . . . We'd be inclined to use stronger language than Rev. Krenmyre's one-word comment: "Piffle."

Gordon Cobbledick, Cleveland Plain Dealer: "What the war has done and will do to baseball is well known and loudly lamented, but it may prove a boon to ball players—at least to those of the current generation. For some hundreds of them are learning what most of us had to learn long ago—namely that working for a living isn't such a tough dodge after all."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

Reporting to New York football writers, Adrian Berwick of the OWI said that out of 3,000 words of daily news sent to London for army consumption, about half concerns sports and 1,300 of the daily 1,800 words sent to India for "The Roundup," an army newspaper, also is sports news. . . . And the requests from soldiers are for more instead of less sports news, he added.

High Cage Loop Suspends Action

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)— Franklin county high schools have abandoned their 1942-43 league basketball schedule because of the critical transportation problem George Beery, superintendent of Franklin county schools, said today.

He said that the decision, reached at a meeting of representatives of the 11 schools, did not mean that the schools would discontinue basketball altogether.

"It is now the task of each of the 11 schools to work out its own cage schedule keeping in mind the recommendation of the athletic board to play teams closer to home," Berry said.

* * *

Schools in the league are Worthington, Hilliard, Grove City, Groveport, Dublin, Gahanna, Hamilton township, Mifflin, Canal Winchester, Reynoldsburg and New Albany.

USE NEW PLAYS

MINNEAPOLIS — (INS) — The Minnesota Gophers worked on a new set of plays today which they hope will click against Wisconsin Saturday. Coach George Hauser was confident the stout Gopher line would halt the Badger attack.

BARONS DEFEATED BY HERSHEY CLUB

(By Associated Press)

The Hershey Bears added two points to their first-place margin in the eastern division of the American Hockey league by nosing out the Cleveland Barons, 5-4, last night in Cleveland.

It was the only game played in the circuit and by losing the Barons missed an opportunity to tie the Indianapolis capitals for second place in the western half of the league.

Bulldogs and Tigers Battle

Massillon and McKinley Decide State Title.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—While Ohio State university's Buckeyes are battling Michigan before 75,000 homecoming fans in Ohio stadium Saturday, a gridiron battle of just as bitter rivalry will be under way at Massillon.

* * *

True it will not be between two of the nation's top college teams; a running account will not be flashed throughout the country. But to football fans of Canton and Massillon it will be the game of the year.

The contest will bring together Massillon Tigers, undefeated in their last 52 starts, and Canton McKinley's Bulldogs, upsetters of undefeated Lakewood last week, in a football classic that will be witnessed by upwards of 20,000 persons.

The McKinley-Massillon series started way back in 1894 and Saturday's renewal will be the 47th meeting between the inter-city rivals. Canton has won 22 of the 46 games: Massillon 21, while three have resulted in ties.

This year, the Bulldogs are given a good chance of upsetting mighty Massillon which will be seeking its eighth straight mythical state championship. Canton has not defeated the team that brought Paul Brown fame and his Ohio State university coaching chance, since 1934.

Although Canton lost to Steubenville's Big Red and was tied by Canton Lincoln, the Bulldogs showed amazing power in shoving Lakewood out of the undefeated class after 22 victories last week by a 28 to 6 score. Massillon, meanwhile, was having a difficult time edging a strong Erie, Pa., team, 13 to 6.

If score comparisons mean anything, Canton should be the favorite. Lakewood, humbled by the Bulldogs, defeated Lorain easily. Lorain in turn beat Erie, 26 to 0, in mid-season, therefore making McKinley more than 50 points better than Massillon on paper.

But Stark county football fanatics point out that previous scores and records mean nothing when Massillon and McKinley meet.

THOMPSON FAILS TO IMPRESS FANS

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)— Fight followers agreed today that Elbert Sylvester (Turkey) Thompson needs a bit more seasoning before he can rightly be called another Joe Louis.

The dusky Oakland, Calif., heavyweight showed little but a hefty left hook and a wide pair of shoulders in eking out a 10-round decision over burly Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia, at the arena last night.

CAN A WINTER THAW FREEZE YOUR CAR?

When the thermometer goes up, how much of your anti-freeze goes out? "Protection" isn't protection if it's chased so fast by heat, that your radiator might be sacrificed to the next blast of COLD! (And repairs these days can cost you even more in time than in money!)

But Super Pyro is anti-freeze that's neither very expensive, nor very easy to lose in mild weather. Super Pyro is made not to take quick leave—not even up around an engine's normal 160 degrees of hotness!

The way Super Pyro can largely stay right in there, despite the heat to be expected, it can still be on hand to do good duty when cold hits. You're not always adding big batches, nor adding much cost. And best of all is your peace of mind—good, sound, economical safety for the car you can't replace at any price. Today get this highly heat-safe, cold-safe Super Pyro.

Marion Stays In NCO Loop

League Votes To Play on Small Edison Floor.

SHELBY — The North Central Ohio league cage season will continue as set up for this coming season according to arrangements completed by league officials Tuesday night at a dinner meeting in Hotel Talbot at Galion.

The sechedule includes home and home games for all six of the league teams, Shelby, Ashland, Bucyrus, Galion, Marion, and Mount Vernon.

One change was made in the league rulings at the meeting. The league standing will not be official until the meeting of league officials after the cage season, then if some of the teams have been unable to play part of their games, this will be taken into consideration before the awarding of the championship.

There will be no reserve cage games played as a league. If schools get together and schedule preliminary games between the reserve squads, it will be all right but there will be no reserve league this winter.

Harding will play its home cage games on the Edison junior high school gymnasium. During the meeting, the Harding representatives were awarded the football trophy for their championship team during the past fall. Marion won five consecutive games to cop the league title.

WORK ON STRATEGY

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (INS) — The Michigan Wolverines worked today on strategy for the Ohio State game. While defense was not forgotten, offensive work was stressed by Coach Fritz Crisler. In eight games this season the Wolverines have rolled off 27 touchdowns and 1,658 yards by rushing and hope to increase this total at the expense of the Buckeyes.

CLOSE HOME SKED

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. —(INS)—Illinoise dug in for its last home stand today as Coach Ray Eliot sent his squad through a long drill in preparation for the Great Lakes invasion. Eliot gave considerable attention to his Reserves whom he expects to use lavishly against the Blue-Jackets.

Leo Waits for Rickey Answer

New Brooklyn Boss Decides Tomorrow.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK—(AP)—It won't be long now until Leo Durocher, to say nothing of the rest of the baseball world, will know whether the manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers next season is to be Leo Durocher.

* * *

In fact, at exactly 2 p. m. tomorrow, Branch Rickey, the new Dodger president, will have a definite answer for Durocher and a few thousand anxious Flatbush fans, as well as anyone else who might be interested.

* * *

Branch the Brain and Leo the Lip huddled for something like eight hours yesterday and worked out a number of problems, but the actual managerial assignment wasn't one of them.

Durocher, finding himself matched, if not over-matched, in the art of conversation, had little to say when the conference ended, but Rickey promised he would come to a decision tomorrow.

There was an indication that Durocher might be asked to return to the active player list.

"I used to think he was a corking good shortstop," Rickey said in discussing the conference later, "and in my judgment he still is a good player, if he would only think so. That could be a part of the question before us."

* * *

Durocher, now 37, did not play at all last year—his fourth as Dodger skipper—and not much the year before. But questioned later, he declared: "Sure, I can play—if I have to."

COMMUNITY SURVEY ANSWER FORM

(Copyright, 1941, Wid Gunning)

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

	LARGE ADS	MEDIUM ADS	SMALL ADS
Sun.
Mon.
Tues.
Wed.
Thurs.
Fri.
Sat.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

Answers Must Be In By Tuesday Midnight The Week After the Selections Are Made!

USES COURSE LIKE ARMY'S

CLINTON, N. Y.—(INS)—Hamilton college's huge indoor hockey rink is sprouting a year-round, 300-yard obstacle course patterned after similar facilities at army camps and navy stations.

To get through the obstacle course a man must clamber over a 12-foot ladder, crawl through a 16-foot tunnel, scale an 8-foot fence, negotiate a 60 foot sand trap, climb up and rescend a 12-foot rope, leap a 4 foot 6 inch fence, advance hand over hand along a 24-foot long pipe, and walk (or run along) a 24 foot, 10 inch in diameter, log.

THEATERS

Canteen Romance.

A romance that starts in a canteen for soldiers provides a "back of the counter" view of the activities of women in war work in the Ohio theater's current offering, "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," showing through Friday. Fay Bainter, in the title role, plays a society woman who tries to cling to her old life, ignoring present conditions. Her son joins the army, her daughter, doing canteen work, meets and marries a sergeant, her attorney and suitor leaves her. Then in dramatic climax comes her awakening and she joins the great army of women working for victory.

Musical Film.

Gloria Jean, youthful singing star, has her first movie boy friend in "Get Hep to Love," the breezy romantic drama at the Madison theater through Friday. The boy friend is talented Donald O'Connor. Among the numbers to be sung by Gloria are "Villanelle," "Siboney," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "Sempre Libre" from "LaTraviata." Billie Burke, Frank Craven and Alan Dinehart are in the supporting cast of the second feature, "Girl Trouble," which co-stars Don Ameche and Joan Bennett.

All American Band.

An All-American band, composed of such famous band leaders as Charlie Barnet, Benny Goodman, Harry James, Jack Penny, Gene Krupa, Alvino Rey and Joe Venuti, is featured in the new film "Syncopation," opening at the Park theater Thursday. The romantic interest is handled by Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville. The co-feature is Tim Holt in "Dude Cowboy." Continuing through today are "They Raid By Night," and Kay Kyser's "My Favorite Spy."

GET WARNING

Truckers Reminded They Must Get Papers Before Dec. 1.

Mansfield truck operators were warned today against further delay in making application for their certificates of war necessity which will be necessary for obtaining gasoline on and after Dec. 1.

Figures announced by the Office of Price Administration today indicated that at least one-third of the commercial haulers in the Ohio - Michigan - Indiana-Kentucky area have failed to apply.

"If the rationing program had not been postponed these negligent truckers couldn't obtain gas next week," the OPA office said. Originally the application deadline had been Nov. 15, just prior to the first-scheduled rationing effective date of Nov. 22.

Owners are directed to send their applications to the nearest office of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Mansfield operators may file at Cleveland, Columbus, Canton, Cincinnati, Toledo, Dayton, Youngstown or Zanesville.

GETS MOST CONTRACTS

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(U.P.)—Almost 10 per cent of all the money being expended in major war supply contracts, facility projects and allocations is being received in the state of California, according to the War Production board. Out of a pool of $69,000,000,000, California is handling contracts totaling $6,396,654,000, it was announced. Aviation and shipbuilding absorb the greater part of the amount.

LEGAL NOTICE

The unknown heirs of Henry C. Hedges whose names and addresses are unknown to plaintiff will take notice that on the 18th day of Nov. 1942, the Home Materials Company filed its certain petition in the Court of Common Pleas, Richland County, Ohio, and numbered on the docket of said court as cause No. 26180 and that said unknown heirs were made parties defendant therein.

That said petition avers that certain real estate was conveyed to said plaintiff by deed recorded Richland County Deed Records, Volumes 139, Page 68, which said deed contained the following description, to-wit

Situate in the State of Ohio, County of Richland and City of Mansfield, and known as Lot Number Twenty-two (22) Auditors Plat, being a part of the northwest quarter section twenty-two (22) township twenty-one (21) range eighteen (18), commencing at the intersection of the south line of Orange Street with the west line of Newman Street, thence west along the south line of Orange Street four hundred and thirty-three feet (433) thence south one hundred and eighty-seven feet (187 ft.) to the right of way of Switch track of the Pennsylvania Ft. Wayne and Chicago R R running into the Eclipse Stove Works, thence east with the north line of said switch four hundred and forty feet (440) to the west line of Newman Street, thence north on the west line of Newman Street two hundred and seventy-three feet 273 ft.) to the place of beginning, containing two and fifty-seven one-hundredths acres (2 57/100)

That said real estate had been conveyed by the said Henry C. Hedges then in full life to plaintiff's immediate grantor by deed recorded Richland County Deed Records Volume 137, Page 281. That the description in the deed from the said Hedges was identical with the description herein above given

Said petition avers that each of said descriptions are incorrect. Plaintiff among other things prays that said incorrect description may be corrected, so that the same when corrected will read as follows

Situate in the State of Ohio, County of Richland and City of Mansfield, and known as Lot Number Twenty-two (22) Auditors Plat, being a part of the northwest quarter section twenty-two (22) township twenty-one (21) range eighteen (18), commencing at the intersection of the south line of Orange Street with the west line of Newman Street thence west along the south line of Orange Street, four hundred and thirty-three (433) feet thence south one hundred and eighty-seven (187) ft. to the right of way of a switch track of the Pennsylvania, Ft. Wayne and Chicago R. R., running into the Eclipse Stove Works; thence east with the north line of said switch four hundred and forty (440) feet to the west line of Newman Street; thence north on the west line of Newman Street two hundred and ninety-three (293) feet to the place of beginning, containing two and fifty-seven one-hundredths acres (2.57).

Said petition further prays that plaintiff's title may be quieted in and to said real estate as described in said corrected description.

The defendants will take notice that said cause will stand for hearing on and after the 28th day of Dec 1942.

I DON'T SEE HOW YOU GUYS THINK THIS NOTE MEANS YOU'LL GET AN ARMY COMMISSION!--- "YOUR LETTER OF AUG 15 REFERRED TO ME FROM DIVISION AA 3 M AND HAS BEEN FORWARDED TO DEPT 6 R 202" THAT STRIKES ME AS A CUSHION FOR A POLITE LET-DOWN!
TUT, OLD CUTLET! IMPORTANT MEN AREN'T REJECTED THAT CASUALLY!--- WE APPLIED FOR THE RANKS OF MAJOR AND BRIGADIER-GENERAL!
LOOK HOW LONG IT TOOK TO ANSWER OUR LETTER, ---AUG.15--- SHOWS THEY ARE GREATLY IMPRESSED!
I WONDER IF THEY EXPECT A PROMOTION TOO?

SAVES $15,000

AKRON —(INS)— The city expects to save $15,000 a year as a result of the federal government taking over operation of the Akron airport about Nov. 15.

T. F. Hathaway, airport manager, will continue on the municipal payroll, but the six licensed employes in the control tower will become government workers.

The CAA proposes to install communications equipment costing $24,000. After the war control of the large airport will revert to the city.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES MARK EARLY TRADES

Record Consumption of Power Reported By Edison Co. For Week of Nov. 8.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Price changes were irregular and mostly narrow in today's early stock market dealings.

Up moderately at the opening were Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Union Carbide. Off a little were Montgomery Ward, Public Service of N. J. and U. S. Steel.

Noted by owners of power and light company shares was the Edison Electric company's report for the week ended Nov. 14 disclosing a record consumption of electric energy for that period.

The sendout was 3,775,878,000 kilo watt hours compared with 3,761,961,000 in the preceding week and 3,347,938,000 in the like period of 1941.

monthly for the purchase of bonds if possible so as to eliminate the work of handling small accounts. A deduction of $6.25 per month would buy a $25 bond every three months.

The plan, entirely voluntary, is designed after the one which has been in use for several months at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant.

Bonds will be purchased once a month by the board of education for teachers and employes who have accumulated sufficient funds to entitle them to a bond. The board then will turn the bonds over to the owners.

In his report to the board last night, Supt. Miller said the Prospect school won $5 in war stamps for purchasing the largest amount of stamps and bonds per pupil during October.

The school, among the smaller ones in the city, had total purchases of $359.90, a per capita average of $1.57. Brinkerhoff school was second with a total of $368.45 and an average of $1.46 per pupil. Senior high school, largest in the city, showed the largest total purchase, or $484.60.

CRESTLINE COUNCIL ACCEPTS BUDGET, STUDIES PAY RAISES

CRESTLINE — At a meeting of city council Tuesday night estimates determined by the budget commission were accepted and certified to County Auditor C. C. Metzger. The amount of the bond payment fund was $4,324.93 and the general fund $15,137.26.

A raise in the salaries for policemen and firemen was discussed. The recent bond issue voted on at the Nov. 3 election which failed to pass, was to have been used for this purpose. Since council has no available funds at this time the matter was tabled.

Mayor Charles Kindinger who presided was authorized to purchase a real estate easement for the water works.

The matter of purchasing sewer rod equipment was tabled until the next meeting.

An open meeting of Crestline Service Center will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the B. of R. T. hall. At that time an advisory board will be selected from the businessmen present. Arrangements will also be made for a house to house canvass for donations early next week. Mrs. Philip Bausch, president of the Center reported that approximately 300 service men are fed daily through the Center and that letters of thanks had been received from all parts of the country from boys who had been served at the center.

GERMANS BRACE FOR ATTACK ON BIZERTE BASE

Boast They're Ready as U. S., British Move Closer To Key Port.

and Crete. Other sources, predicting important naval operations in the Mediterranean, said the Axis was known to be operating at least 50 submarines there.

Rommel himself was reported to be in Tunisia for a "last chance" attempt to stay the Allied advance and save some part of strategic North Africa for the Axis.

A Reuters dispatch from advanced Allied headquarters in North Africa said Rommel was "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" in Tunisia to meet the British First army and United States forces moving into Tunisia from Algeria.

Far across the Libyan desert, the British Eighth army advanced some 80 miles in one day to reach a point only 70 miles from Bengasi and further close the gap between the main body of Rommel's retreating forces and the British pursuers.

The Allied advance in Libya is being made on a "wide front," today's communique from British headquarters said.

As the British forces approached the once important supply port of Bengasi, Allied bombers roared in at a low level and set fire to a number of barges in the harbor, which apparently were intended for use in withdrawing elements of Rommel's army.

Allied fighter aircraft, hovering over the Bengasi region, shot down six Axis transport planes and destroyed at least six more on the ground.

British officers expressed the belief that a clash between the U. S.-British forces coming from Algeria and the Axis forces clustered about Bizerte and Tunis was imminent. The same sources said the Africa corps, routed in Egypt, probably was preparing positions for a new stand at El Agheila in Libya.

The headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower remained silent about the operations in Tunisia, but widespread Allied and Axis reports indicated that combined Allied forces were operating both in north and south Tunisia.

The British and American forces were pictured as driving both for a head-on clash with the estimated 10,000 Germans in the Bizerte-Tunis area and in an enveloping arc to the south which would cut the road to Libya, perhaps at Gabes, and thus divide the Axis forces.

Reveal Allied Armada Battled 50 Subs

LONDON—(INS)—Allied landing forces in North Africa battled a force of at least 50 enemy submarines in carrying out the invasion operation, an authoritative British spokesman revealed today.

He said that 30 U-boats were off North Africa when the Allied armada arrived and later were reinforced by about 20 more.

Thirteen of the enemy submarines were sunk and only one Allied transport "failed to deliver," the spokesman said.

Nazis Gain Only Few Yards At Stalingrad

MOSCOW—(AP)—At the end of the first week of renewed offensive thrusts into siege-torn Stalingrad, the Germans today had gained only a few yards in persistent and costly efforts to occupy the northern factory district for winter quarters.

The army newspaper Red Star said the Nazis had been concentrating their attack on a sector less than 500 yards wide, trying vainly to break through to the Volga.

Far to the north the Nazis were reported striking recklessly in an effort to re-take a village recently captured by the Russians. The communique told also of lively Soviet offensive operations southeast of Nalchik in the mid-Caucasus.

In the only other active section of the front, the invaders were reported thrown back with 400 killed in an effort to pierce Red lines northeast of Tuapse along the Black sea coast.

On and after Dec. 1, when purchasing gasoline under rationing restrictions the motorist will be required to write his or her vehicle's license number and state in which it was issued on the reverse side of the rationing coupon. Each "A" book coupon will be good for four gallons of gas in any one week.

Or you can enjoy an old-time custom by saying "fill 'er up" and tear out all the coupons at one time—and likely go driveless for a greater portion of the book's normal life span.

Gas rationing will become a new experience for Mansfielders and other Ohioans as well as motorists in all central and western states while residents of eastern states are old hands at the war-induced program which became effective in the coastal area last summer.

Despite a flurry of hope yesterday that congressional action might cause an abandonment of the rationing program which had been twice postponed the Office of Price Administration put registration machinery into operation today as scheduled and the Federal Bureau of Investigation was seeking the sources of further postponement rumors.

Motorists restricted to the A book will have, generally, enough gas for 240 miles of necessary driving a month — and that is what Uncle Sam is aiming at. There's little chance for Sunday excursions or visits to grandpa's farm. John Driver isn't going anywhere unless he has to and the long-lost art of walking may come into being again.

With travel by bus having leaped to unprecedented proportions in recent weeks transportation companies anticipate an avalanche of between-town travel when rationing begins. Railroad travel also is expected to show enormous gains.

22 INJURED

Elevated Suburban Trains Collide at Chicago.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—At least 22 persons were hospitalized today as the result of a collision between a Chicago elevated train and a Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Suburban train. Police mobilized several squad and patrol cars to take the injured to hospitals.

Police said they had no reports of any deaths. The collision occurred on the north side branch of the elevated shortly before another collision between two elevated trains on the South Side.

Several passengers were reported injured in the south side crash.

IRON ORE FOUND BENEATH LAKE

Republic Steel Tests Ore, Finds It Valuable.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and founder of the Republic Steel corporation, believes a vast, under-water iron ore deposit in Canada may be the key to uncurtailed wartime steel production.

Eaton reported that ore from an undeveloped deposit under Steep Rock Lane, west of Port Arthur, Ontario, was tested in Republic's furnaces here yesterday and proved valuable as a "finish ore" for reducing carbon content of high grade steel.

Development of engineering facilities and draining of Steep Rock lake to uncover the huge ore deposit will be completed in time to permit mining of 1,000,000 tons of ore in 1944, he added.

DOUG'S SILENT ON DIEPPE RAID

Says He's Had Some Close Shaves But They're Not Unusual.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Lieut. Douglas Fairbanks, jr., U. S. N., wouldn't comment today on his part in the Commando raid on Dieppe, other than there he had been "on combined operations."

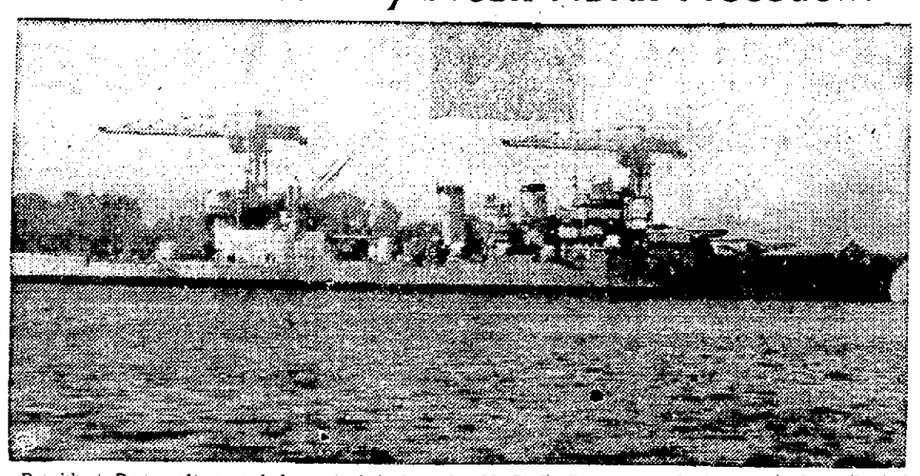
"I've done the average amount of duty," he said shortly after his arrival here en route to "a change of duty. "I've had my close shaves. But I haven't done anything more or less than my shipmates."

Fairbanks is accompanied by his wife, the former Mary Lee Epling.

GETS WLB POST

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Ray M. Suter, Columbus, chief of the benefits department of the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation, has been named director of the research and analysis division of the National War Labor board's Cleveland regional office, Lewis M. Gill, regional director, announced.

San Francisco May Break Naval Precedent



President Roosevelt revealed in his nation-wide radio speech last night that the commander of the task force which helped deliver a stunning defeat to the Japs in the Solomons recommended that the U. S. S. San Francisco, cruiser (above), "be the first of the U. S. Navy's vessels to be decorated for outstanding service." During the battle, it was stated, she sailed right into the enemy fleet, engaged three vessels and sank one of them. Then, at point-blank range she took on an enemy battleship and so disabled her that she could be sunk by torpedoes from nearby destroyers.

ever, that any of the registrants under 20 will be called for training until January since it usually requires a month or six weeks to classify them and call them for induction. As far as possible, the youths under 20 will be called in the order of their birthdays, with the oldest to be inducted first.

In Washington today, selective service officials announced that men deferred by their draft boards as essential farm workers must obtain the approval of their draft boards if they wish to leave their jobs, or else be classified as available for immediate military service.

The ruling applies to married men with children as well as other groups of registrants.

FDR EXPLAINS DARLAN'S PLACE

Says Agreement With Vichy Admiral Serves Only as Temporary Expedient.

tives, the first of which was to save lives, French lives as well as American and British lives.

"The second," he added, "was the vital factor of time. The temporary arrangement made it possible to avoid a 'mopping up' period in Algiers and Morocco which might have taken a month or two to consummate. Such a period would have delayed the concentration for the attack from the west on Tunis, and we hope on Tripoli."

Admiral Darlan's "cease fire" order after three days of resistance helped make a "mopping up" period unnecessary, the president said.

"The future French government," Mr. Roosevelt said, "will be established—not by any individual in metropolitan France or overseas—but by the French people themselves after they have been set free by the victory of the United Nations."

President Roosevelt also sized up a fortnight's "good news" from the battle zones last night as indicating that the turning point of the war had been reached.

But he tempered his analysis, presented in a radio speech to the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum, with cautious phrases. He said it would continue to be an uphill fight—"all the way"—that there could be "no coasting to victory," and that it was no time for exultation.

"There is no time now," Mr. Roosevelt said, "for anything but fighting and working to win."

He described the encounter between Japanese and American warships Nov. 13 to 15 as "one of the great battles of our history."

At a press conference earlier he had said that the engagement, in which the navy listed enemy losses at 23 vessels against two of our light cruisers and half a dozen destroyers, represented a major victory.

It was the first time he had used the word "major" in referring to any of the battles in the Pacific theater.

Despite this crushing blow administered to a numerically superior Japanese fleet, the president said in his speech that a "gigantic job" remained to be done.

Assailing "loose talk" and what he considered politically-inspired criticism of the war effort, the president said that persons without access to all the facts almost inevitably speak from guesswork.

"They do not know the facts," he asserted, "and, therefore, the value of their statements becomes greatly reduced. Nor, must we in the actual progress of the war, lend ears to the clamor of politics or to criticism from those who, as we know in our hearts, are actuated by political motives."

GETS HOUSE

Historical Society Gets Former John Brown Property.

AKRON—(AP)—An Akron house which once belonged to John Brown, the abolitionist, has been bequeathed to the Summit County Historical society by Mrs. May Perkins, who died here last week.

Mrs. Perkins, whose husband descended from a pioneer Akron family, also left $10,000 to maintain the house.

UPHOLDS RULING

Court Decides Firm Not Liable In Medical Damage Suit.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The Ohio supreme court today upheld a decision of Allen county courts that the Medical Protetctive Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind., is not liable to pay a $76,391.08 judgment claimed by Grace Miller.

Grace Miller originally obtained a judgment in that amount against Dr. C. E. Jones for damages involving alleged negligence in treatment. Dr. Jones was insured by the Medical Protetctive.

HOPE FADES

Six Men Aboard Missing Army Bomber Feared Lost.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(U.P.)—Little hope was held today for the safety of six men aboard an army bomber which has been missing from Page Field here since early Tuesday.

The army announced that the plane had been out of touch with the field since 3:30 a. m. Tuesday. No further details were available.

In 1787 the first Shaker Society in the United States was organized.

DESCRIBES HOW ALLIED SHIPS ENTERED ORAN

Writer Rides Launch Which Leads Way Into Blazing African Port.

It was midnight when we left the convoy, steaming without lights. We were to attack at 3 a. m. Sunday at the moment when a British cruiser, lying offshore, sent up rockets to divert attention from our entrance to the harbor, to break the boom and, landing, seize port installations and capture or scuttle French warships and merchantmen.

I had broken my left ankle previously in a fall in rough weather on the ward room deck. My left leg was in a plaster cast and I was using a crutch.

Everybody knew what we were going into, and I tied a life preserver on my heavily weighted left leg in addition to the one I wore.

At 1:30 a. m. I hobbled to the bridge on my crutch.

We passed undetected almost to the harbor mouth. Then a search light blazed out from shore. It groped about and picked us up. It held us for a moment and then winked out. In an instant guns of the shore batteries, from cannon to machine guns, opened up.

Leaning out of the bridge window I saw our other cutter approach the boom, a cable linking small ships across the harbor mouth, its guns blazing at the terrific barrage from the shore. It was destined to ground and blow up under the French fire.

Shells began dropping directly on the mess deck where the American troops were waiting.

"Landing parties away!" called Col. Marshall.

Things began blowing up around us. Our depth charges blew up. Steam broke loose to starboard. The smoke became dense and the cannon fire was now only a red haze.

I crawled from the bridge to the deck and spotted a drifting boat alongside. Then I was struck by a shrapnel blast in both legs. It threw me back on the bridge. I realized that I was bleeding profusely. I pulled myself with my good leg to the side of the boat forward. The skipper was standing alone nearby. He called to me, mistaking me for an officer.

A shell burst and knocked us both to the deck.

Our cutter was now afire. I pulled myself up again. A cruiser loomed up alongside, by the light of the flames, so close it appeared only a few feet away. Its guns were blazing red flashes. The whole place was infernal. I could not tell where I was now and I must have passed out for a while. When I came to I got out to starboard of the bridge deck and pulled myself up again. Flames were shooting high through the bridge and the air was choked by smoke and fumes.

I flung off my steel helmet and jumped for the water, and almost drowned. The life preserver I had tied on my leg rose to the surface but the one I wore did not. It had been punctured by the shrapnel which wounded me in the chest.

Head down in the water, I climbed up my own leg, tore the leg life preserver loose, and started swimming 100 feet to a hawser I saw hanging from a French merchantman. Shells and shrapnel fragments were hitting the water around me. I reached the hawser and hung there trying to regain my strength. The cast was pulling me down and I started swimming again, into the darkness between the ship and its pier. I expected the heaving ship to crush me against the pier but there was no other way to go.

I saw a rope sagging between the ship and the pier. I grabbed the rope and heaved myself up it. A soldier grabbed me from above. Another pushed me up from below and I rolled over the stone pier.

Then a shot hit me in the heel of my crippled foot. I crawled away on my elbows, with shrapnel and bullets splattering about like somebody throwing corn at a duck.

I was in the street for an hour and a half before a French patrol picked me up. They took me to an underground air raid post where the battered, bloody survivors were coming in. They carried me out in the rain on a stretcher as dawn broke.

I saw our ship aflame 300 feet away, shaking with explosions.

I was brought to this hospital in a truck.

For the past 40 hours after I was put in bed I heard the roar of gun fire and saw the flashes of explosions. French guns were firing from the hill beside the hospital and American guns were replying. Machine guns were firing outside my window and American tanks were fighting within sight of the hospital as late as Tuesday morning.

Every now and then someone passed word that the fighting was going to end at once, that the Americans and French had reached agreement. Each time the nurses wept for joy. Then the agreement did come. The firing stopped and American soldiers marched into the hospital. It was one of the greatest joys of my life.

CONCEDE U. S. DESTROYED A BATTLESHIP

Tokyo Broadcast Says Second Big Craft Damaged During Solomons Battle.

third Solomons' naval battle after the Tokyo radio, abetted by the German and Italian radios, had trumpeted in advance to the world that "another bombshell announcement" was forthcoming.

In comparison with previous Japanese versions of other naval engagements in the Pacific war, however, the bombshell element was lacking for anyone but the Axis since the real surprise was the Japanese admission to have lost a battleship.

No names were given but the U. S. navy earlier this week said the spearhead of the Japanese invasion force which attempted to batter its way to the shores of Guadalcanal was composed of two battleships of the Kongo class and presumably it was one of these two which was sunk.

Information is incomplete but Japan is believed to have had at least 10 battleships when she launched the war in the Pacific with perhaps five others under construction or newly completed.

The Japanese claimed that their forces sank eight cruisers and four or five destroyers and heavily damaged two battleships, three cruisers and three or four destroyers in the battle from Nov. 12 to Nov. 14.

They also said they sank one transport and heavily damaged three transports.

Intensify Drive To Oust Japs From Papua

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—(INS)—The battle under direction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to oust the Japs from Papua, southeastern New Guinea, was intensified today as Australian forces occupied Awala and continued their advance against the main enemy base of Buna as the Japanese increased their aerial opposition.

Awala, 34 land miles and only 16 miles by air from Buna, was seized by an Australian column pressing eastward as American troops flown to the battle area continued their advance from the southeast.

A headquarters communique disclosed that the Japanese made their first counter-move against the swift Allied advance by sending a force of 18 bombers and fighters into an attack in the Buna area.

The air support of their retreating forces did little to aid the Japs and Allied fliers constantly attacked the retreating enemy.

Aircraft manned by Americans and Australians countered the Jap air thrust by striking at their northern base of Lae, in northeast New Guinea, and also raided Rabaul, in New Britain and bombed Buin, on Bougainville island in the Solomons.

Chinese Call Victory War's Turning Point

CHUNGKING—(AP)—The Chinese press greeted the United States naval victory in the Solomon islands today as a turning point in the Battle of the Pacific. The official Central Daily News said "the key to final victory has been put in the hands of the Allies both in the east and in the west."

"The Solomons' victory is much more important than any offensive against the Japanese on land because Japan is essentially a naval power," the Central Daily News said. "No matter how triumphant her army is on land she will be finished once her navy is destroyed."

Expect Jap Losses To Exceed First Tally

WASHINGTON —(INS)— American forces on Guadalcanal were well set today to begin "mopping up" remaining Japanese troops on the island, as developments indicated that Nipponese fleet losses in the recent sea-air battle exceeded the 30-ship toll announced by the navy.

The jubilant attitude of high-ranking navy officials left no doubt that the final tabulation on the Nov. 13-15 naval-air battle in the Solomons would show the American victory nothing short of colossal, bolstering the hope that the U. S. fleet may dominate the Pacific from now on.

Their obvious elation undoubtedly was based on incomplete and still unannounced details of a naval engagement off Guadalcanal Nov. 14-15, which was followed by complete rout of the powerful enemy armadas that were seeking to recapture the island.

Results of this engagement, which may be announced momentarily, will be added to the navy's previous tabulation of one enemy battleship, five cruisers, five destroyers and eight transports sunk, one battleship and six destroyers damaged and four cargo vessels destroyed.

Japs Fail To Shake U. S. Offensive Plan

PEARL HARBOR, T. H.—(AP)—Japan, despite a mighty concentration of air and sea power in the South Pacific, has failed to shake plans for an American offensive.

The Japs appear to have lost the initiative in that sector, paying heavily in planes, ships and men.

General Douglas MacArthur has taken the field in New Guinea for a growing land offensive there. The great Solomons victory of Nov. 13-15 demonstrates clearly Allied command of the sky, sea and land in the Guadalcanal sector. All these things point to the shaping of plans to break into the greater Asia sphere of Japanese conquest and roll the enemy back.

The comment by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, relative to future action that maybe it will be of our choosing, not their choosing," is regarded as highly significant.

Those in charge of operations point out there is a long hard fight ahead.

Admiral Nimitz commented "they are smart and do know how to conduct war and they are absolutely ruthless with their own people as well as ours."

Japanese loss of life has been heavy—5,000 in the battle of the Coral sea; more than 10,000 at Midway; and perhaps between 20,000 and 40,000 in the crumpling of the Guadalcanal-bound invasion force; as well as more than 5,000 on Guadalcanal.

But even this is far less crippling than losses in flying personnel and carrier-based planes.

It is believed that an important part of the trained naval aviation strength of the Japs has been destroyed. This may be the explanation why no carriers were used by the Japanese in the showdown effort last week.

ments by air and sea."

Alexander said the American Sherman tank is "grand and as good as any on the battlefield—our troops love it."

Referring to Rommel, although he did not use his name, Alexander said:

"He will hang on. He always does. He's a good fighter, that fellow. He's trying to hang on and reorganize.

"When he gets to Tripoli and finds it too costly then he may attempt to get out—a sort of Dunkerque."

The slender, alert commander in chief, sunburned and handsome in his battle dress, exuded optimism but tempered it with caution. The present British and Allied problem is one chiefly of supply as the Libyan chase extends to the west, he remarked.

The general said British casualties in the big push had been 13,600. The Germans and Italians, on the other hand, lost more than 30,000 in captured alone and scores more are being picked up daily, he said.

"The best opinion of my experts" places the total Axis losses, killed, wounded and captured, at 75,000, Alexander asserted.

in a sea of medium sized swells. They had a two-place plane which normally could not possibly accommodate the three rescued army men.

"However, they managed to squeeze Col. Adamson into the cockpit. Capt. Rickenbacker and Pvt. Bartek were lashed to the wings.

"Then, the plane taxied along the surface of the sea for 40 miles to its base."

The same day, three other companions of Rickenbacker on the ill-fated flight were rescued by the navy from a small Pacific island. They were Lt. James C. Whittaker, Lt. John J. De Angelis and Sergt. James J. Reynolds.

Rickenbacker and three of his companions are in good condition, but Bartek and Reynolds are still ill and weak from exhaustion, the war department said. However, the two enlisted men are responding well to treatment and are showing satisfactory improvement, it was announced.

"Two weeks in a hospital are prescribed for all the survivors," the department stated, indicating that the survivors are in a navy hospital.

The army plane carrying Rickenbacker and seven others was forced down at sea Oct. 21 while enroute from Hawaii to a small Pacific island. "Rick" was inspecting Pacific air bases for Stimson and Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces.

Capt. William T. Cherry, jr., the plane's pilot, was picked up from a life raft in the south Pacific last Thursday and an intensified search was launched, resulting in the rescue of Rickenbacker and five other fliers. Sergt. Alexander Kaczmarczyk, who also was aboard the plane, died on a life raft and was buried at sea.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1942.

If, as has been said, "Man wants but little here below," it's probably just as well.

A bloc is defined as a group that admits: "Our chief concern is our own profit—not our country's welfare"—as in the case of the "silver bloc."

News item about Mrs. Roosevelt's return from England: "The fact that the president met her at an airport indicated that she returned by airplane"—also the fact that she arrived within twelve hours after leaving London.

United Nations Will Win, of Course

THE COMMENT by Secretary of the Navy Knox on the American victory in the Solomon Islands naval battle, "Of course we will defeat them," might well be taken as the basis of public thought toward the outcome of the war as a whole.

The war is going to be won by the United Nations—certainly. The nations, large and small, aligned against the Axis powers have sufficient potential fighting strength to assure eventual victory.

The only question is the length of time that will be required to beat down enemy resistance to the point of submission—and this will depend largely on how earnestly the United States goes forward, from now on, with war production and civilian support of the national war program.

Apparent success in Africa and the more recent achievements in the Far East encourage hope that a turning point is being reached at which Allied military strength will become superior to that of Germany and Japan, but this cannot be safely taken for granted, nor can it be assumed that either of these two enemy nations have been weakened to the point of assuring an early peace.

Approach of the Pearl Harbor anniversary date, marking the first year of United States participation in actual warfare, will be a fitting occasion for casting up accounts and estimating possibilities of winning the war next year, or the year after.

For the present no better mental attitude can be taken than that expressed by Secretary Knox, "Of course we will defeat them"—and then proceed toward that accomplishment as rapidly as possible.

Approach of Gasoline Rationing

RESTRICTED use of gasoline, which has been on a "voluntary" basis ever since the Baruch committee's report, disclosing the urgent need to conserve rubber, was published several months ago, is now moving toward compulsion.

As was earlier demonstrated in connection with sugar and coffee shortages, "voluntary" compliance with requests to reduce speed and confine use of automobiles to necessary driving didn't work out. Too many motorists, it appears, were unimpressed with the seriousness of the rubber situation and used their own judgment as to speed and distance of travel.

Attendance at football games, and motor travel to races and other sports centers, has led to the conclusion that hundreds of thousands of people have not been greatly impressed by warnings from Washington that an acute rubber shortage exists and that present tires must be made to last as long as possible for essential driving.

Ohio State and Illinois played last Saturday in Cleveland to a crowd of 68,656; the crowd for the Notre Dame-Michigan game at South Bend was 57,000; Penn State-Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, 50,000—and other big college games attracted from 20,000 to 35,000 spectators, many of whom drove long distances.

Can men who have been making an effort to secure popular support of nation-wide rationing appear to have been more influenced by representations of petroleum interests that there is no shortage of gasoline in many parts of the country than by the need to conserve rubber, and if this need is as urgent as is being asserted, gasoline rationing has already been too long delayed.

Anyhow, today, tomorrow and Friday are registration days in Mansfield, and public attitude toward this procedure may as well be graceful acceptance of an additional unpleasant restraint.

Even Simple Things Must Be Learned

OLD-TIMERS are surprised to see how quickly a generation arises knowing nothing of old ways. Grandma is amazed, for instance, at a generation that has no idea of how to keep clean without bathtubs or showers and hot water heaters. In her youth people used a teakettle and washbowl. She thinks it's queer, too, that people cannot shut off the parlor and keep warm in the kitchen. But many people have never seen a wood stove or hard-coal range, and their rooms are all open.

There are thousands of families whose homes are heated with gas or oil. They never ran a coal furnace, and for them the National Board of Underwriters gives useful hints. To avoid danger of coal gas when putting the furnace to bed at night do it this way, says the board:

First put [illegible] in the furnace.
2. Put [illegible] on, but have a small spot of the coals uncovered at first.
3. Open the ports in the firing door and close off all bottom drafts.
4. Close down the damper but not entirely, or completely.

The bare spot of live coals burns the coal gas as it is produced by the heat, and does not let it accumulate to explode later or pour through the house to the danger of occupants.

Fearless Expansion Advised

WHEN a man who is credited with as many accomplishments as is Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilding wizard, expresses his views on matters of current public interest he should be given respectful attention.

Now, for instance, in the midst of uncertainties as to the future of business and industry, Mr. Kaiser says:

"This is an hour to push aside every doubt which the business man or the industrialist may harbor concerning the future of his company if he enters upon all-out production. Managers and investors who will not go all-out now, taking a chance on their own survival, are unworthy of survival. Any curb upon our inventiveness, upon our engineering, upon our administrative genius, is that much service to our enemies and injury to ourselves. Only those can hope to live who are not afraid to die."

All the talk about "the world getting smaller" is not likely to impress folks who have to walk several miles to work.

WELL, SOMEBODY HAS TO TEACH THEM

Over-Optimism Is Latest Problem

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — The suddenness of the war tide's change from a decidedly pro-Axis direction into one somewhat in the democracies' favor has muddled official Washington considerably.

It isn't that officialdom is otherwise than gratified but it finds it difficult to readjust itself on such short notice. It went to bed one night recently, trying to think up broadcasts calculated to discount public discouragement and awoke the next morning to tackle the job of staving off popular over-optimism.

The administration obviously seeks to give the impression that it picked its time for launching our northwesterly African invasion well in advance of the actual beginning of the offensive and sprung it precisely at the selected moment.

I have my personal doubts of the accuracy of this version.

The administration folk knew, to a dateline, just when they had a congressional election coming on. Naturally they likewise knew to a certainty that if, as the November 3 polling places were in the very act of opening, the voters had been informed of our new African operation, they'd have registered an absolutely unprecedented victory.

Instead the African performance, though literally already in its incipiency, still was a secret, from the administration itself, I'd guess, and the party got a kick in the slats that was a record-breaker.

Military Decision.

Now, it's all very well to contend that our administration is too high-minded to let a little matter like a congressional majority figure in its reasonings relative to war strategy; only I'm betting that a trifling question of November 2, 3 or 4 wouldn't have influenced that African announcement, if Washington had had it available on election eve. Instead, the disclosure would have been militarily advantageous to us, from the legislative standpoint.

No, our sea, aviation and potential land invasion commands clearly discerned the democracies' possibilities of a huge gain against the Axis by an instant swipe at the enemy and took a crack at it on their own responsibility.

Right now beaten candidates at the last congressional election are complaining that they were licked because Uncle Sam was so slow in breaking into offensive belligerency. And, at the very time that these speeches were being written, he was landing in northwestern Africa—but the speeches' authors didn't know it.

It's interesting to note that our Latin American neighbors are lining up with us more and more solidly. Argentina, as we know, has been a little balky, but northwestern Africa is a closer associate of the Argentine Republic than we are. If we're going to dominate that "bulge" it'll pay the Argentinos to get in cahoots with us.

Franco's Hold Insecure.

And Spain figures in it.

Spanish Dictator Franco is totalitarian, but his country is principally democratic, as I know from former residence there. He licked his democracy in a hard civil war. However, he doesn't hold it very vigorously. Herr Hitler himself has served notice that he doesn't intend to interfere there.

It all mixes into Africa materially.

Brazil (a traditional friend of this country) and the northwestern African continent are very closely tied together with the U. S. A.

Even Argentina, if it stays pro-Axis (which it won't do), won't make much difference. It's in too much of a minority — seven or eight millions versus Brazil's 30 or 40 millions. Up the coast, to the northward, there are a few more millions, but not enough to count materially.

Listen World!

Should Women Pay?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW ABOUT "Dutch Treats"? Working girls paying their full share of the evening's fun—working wives carrying their half of the home expense?

No, that isn't just a "sob column subject." It's one of the biggest social problems in today's picture—one of the most potent agents in shaping a new world with an entirely different relationship between the sexes. But will it be a better world? Ruth May Knell, of 245-05 Ninety-first Avenue, Bellerose, N. Y., doesn't believe it will. Say she:

"I think 'Dutch Treats' are bad in every way, particularly now. Fighting men must preserve their morale, and nothing tears down male morale quicker than an exhibition of female independence. No real man wants to 'go Dutch Treat.' The suggestion nearly always comes from the girl. True, many girls have more money than their escorts these days. But they should not display that fact by robbing a man of his self-respect, his greatest asset. How can a man 'feel big' if his ego is damaged by his girl friend, sweetheart or even wife showing her independence? Better a couple of malts at the corner drugstore and a walk in the moonlight than the most expensive night spot with all the trimmings—on the girl's money.

"From time immemorial there has been a definite financial balance between men and women. We must preserve it. It is a perilous thing to trifle with ancestral traditions."

That's a delightful and sympathetic letter, Ruth May, and will doubtless boost the ego of many a deflated male. But, in all friendliness, I think it has about as much place in our 1942 world as powdered wigs and pantalettes. Not that I object to any Big Boy squandering his surplus cash. But the notion that he'll become spiritually bankrupt if the Little Girl pays for her share of the hot dogs, seems to me pure piffle.

A social order which is founded on that theory of male dominance and female dependence is neither natural nor beautiful, healthy nor happy. It's false and silly and leads to endless tragedy. Why's it false? Because it never was true. Men were never as strong nor women as weak as the sentimentalists would have us believe. They were always equal burden-bearers, regardless of statutes or taboos.

There's nothing new about girl welders and girl aviators. Women may be handling new tools today but they put in as long and husky hours over the washboard, cradle and bread bowl one thousand years ago. Normal, self-respecting females have always paid their share, often far more than their share, in the human program. This magnificent male gesture of paying their way in public was just a masculine conceit. The Little Woman had already earned her way and was equally entitled to public respect and independence.

The man whose morale can be shattered because the girl friend buys her own movie ticket does not belong on any deck or in any tank. He has no place in real life but should be carefully preserved in a basinette with a rubber teething ring. Such a man can't defend himself, much less his country. He'll pay high—and always has—for his fat-headed fantasy. Every lazy, scheming, whining little wench will take advantage of him. Real women will pity and despise him, knowing how much he is missing when he passes up honest companionship.

We are fighting for freedom in this war. But that does not mean merely freedom from Nazis or Japs. It means freedom from all the shackling stupidity, vanity, and selfishness which have prevented men and women from enjoying the world and each other fully and honestly. It's NOT "a perilous thing to trifle with the traditions of our ancestors." It's a healthy and urgent thing. If we hadn't trifled, we'd still be living in caves and eating raw lizards. And the liveliest promoters of New Orders have always been the women—because they have always suffered most from ancient injustice and inconvenience.

The Dutch Treat plan is just one more sign of their crusading, one more effort to establish real equality, and break down the false barriers. And I'm all for it! Now it's your turn. So bring on your smelling salts or brickbats, we're ready!

Naval Victory Over the Japanese Brightens Prospects In Far East

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE GREAT American naval victory in the Solomons, while not necessarily decisive, certainly puts a brighter aspect on the American position in the Pacific and might even serve to shorten the war there.

The engagement already has been compared by some commentators to the Battle of Jutland in the last war. Whether the comparison is justified, it is too soon to tell.

If it were justified, the importance of the victory would be tremendous. The British were in a sense defeated in the Battle of Jutland, since they lost more ships and men than the Germans. Yet it proved to be a decisive victory, because the German fleet retreated to home waters and was out of action for the remainder of the war.

Naval men do not think the Japanese fleet, although routed in this major action, will retire permanently. They expect the Japanese to steam out again in force, if only to save "face." Our naval ability, and the splendid co-ordination of surface and air power, has been demonstrated in this latest battle as it was previously in the Coral sea and at Midway.

When the Japanese appear again in force, there is a good chance that there will be a decisive action. If the Japanese navy is crippled, Japan has lost the war, no matter how long it manages to cling to the many bases scattered over the vast Pacific. With American naval power dominant, they could be cleaned out one by one.

Two striking things stand out in accounts of the Solomons battle. One, and a rather amazing one, is that the Japanese employed no aircraft carriers. That is a serious handicap in naval warfare as it is fought these days.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz gave full credit to our carriers and their planes for their part in the battle. It seems likely that they contributed to the victory.

The absence of Japanese carriers means either that the enemy losses in that category have been greater than we estimated and that they have none in serviceable condition, or that they are husbanding what they have left for future action.

* * *

THE OTHER interesting thing about the battle is the performance of the battleships, which were used by both sides. After some of the previous Pacific engagements, some people were virtually writing the battleship off as an obsolete weapon. The Washington program of building several "super" battleships was cancelled or deferred.

Nimitz, however, told reporters that the navy's faith in the battleship had been justified by this engagement. He said they contributed considerably to the losses inflicted on the enemy.

Japan's losses in warships were accompanied by the destruction of eight troop transports and four cargo transports. Nimitz estimated that from 20,000 to 40,000 Japanese perished.

That is of importance to our position on Guadalcanal and at Tulagi. The loss of these reinforcements and supplies may make it possible for us to drive out the Japanese completely in the southernmost Solomons before they have time to regroup for another blow.

Germany Entering Grim Winter As Supply Sources Are Closed

—By EDWIN SHANKE

LONDON—The Allied blows in North Africa struck Nazi Germany at a time when it was entering the grimmest winter of the war.

From the standpoint of five determining factors of war—military, economic and political strength, tenacity of Allies and morale—Germany is at a crossroads.

It is not a question of a "turnip winter" like that in 1917 which presaged the fall of Imperial Germany. Reichsmarshal Goering already has told the world the suppressed peoples will starve before Germany does.

But Germany has eaten through her reserves despite the strictest rationing. This year's overall harvest is reported to be only 80 per cent of normal.

Disorganized by war, flood, drought, peasant hoarding and guerrilla warfare, the rest of Europe is much worse off.

Economically Germany is hitting an all-time low. Most of the deterioration is traceable to manpower shortage and transportation knots. And Hitler still does not have the oil and rubber he covets.

In Russia, the war has proved a tremendous drain of economic resources for Germany and blockaded Europe, instead of filling the reservoir as had been hoped.

The North African occupation has cut off Germany's access to phosphates, cobalt, vegetable oils, manganese, antimony, wool, cotton, fresh fruits and vegetables. Besides, it has closed a leak in the blockade through which Hitler was getting far eastern supplies such as rubber.

Hitler has exhausted his own labor. Six million foreigners are engaged in Germany, but they are mostly of low efficiency.

* * *

MEANWHILE, the growing strain of long hours, RAF raids and war conditions on the health and stamina of the industrious German workers is beginning to tell in declining productivity per man.

It is estimated that only 20 per cent of Germany's present production is for civilian needs.

Politically, Hitler's last year has been barren. Instead of winning over the suppressed peoples, he was forced to use harsher measures to keep them in control. Doubt about the outcome of the war is creeping into the leaders' speeches.

This wavering among the leadership and reports that Hitler has shaken up the high command because he had lost faith in some of his generals are helping to undermine and weaken the morale of the Germans.

Instead victory after victory has led merely to greater hardships and great trials.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—"Mystery men" in Washington are about as common as tumbleweeds in Texas and usually just as important in the national scheme of things.

Generally, they are fellows with some sort of title or "important contacts" who look wise, say little, spend money, and by innuendo and rumor create the impression that they are riding very firmly on the coattails of the inner circle.

If you read or hear that Ferdinand Eberstadt is Washington's No. 1 "mystery man" —and you probably will — don't get the wrong impression. He doesn't belong to that outfit.

IN THE first place his title isn't "some sort of." He's vice chairman of the War Production Board and head of the newly created Facility Clearance Board. At the moment, he has more say-so about what goes into military and what into civilian production than any person in Washington. In his capacity as head of FCB, he's taking a look-see at present and planned construction projects with a view to eliminating waste.

As for "contacts"—hold your breath. It was Under Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal who brought Eberstadt to Washington nearly two years ago to get the Army-Navy Munitions board into line as a going business institution. But, and this is important, probably his closest friend here is Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, a sidekick in World War I.

His other "contacts" include those he made at Princeton, where he picked up a Phi Beta Kappa key; on the Mexican border, where he was a member of one of those snappy Park Avenue cavalry regiments; in France where he rose to captain in field artillery; as a member of the law firm of McAdoo-Cotton-Franklin; and as Wall Street investment banker.

HIS only resemblance to those other "mystery men" is that he doesn't talk much. When he does, it's in snapped-off sentences and the word he uses most frequently is "No." When it comes to publicity, he's a Hollywood starlet in reverse.

From this, it should be apparent that "innuendo" is too long a route for dynamic Mr. Eberstadt to travel and if he has ever bothered with a "rumor", I haven't heard of it. As for spending money, he could, but he doesn't.

In a recent weekly magazine article, Eberstadt was referred to as an "energetic icicle." Employes and the newsmen who are on his run are generally less picturesque. They just say he's "tough."

That crack isn't really uncomplimentary. His position in WPB and his connection with the Army as well as the Navy, places him in what could be the most powerful job in the country so far as production is concerned.

Some observers think (and the ranks are growing every day) that he has that quality of toughness which may iron out our production kinks—may even result in his superseding Donald Nelson, in authority, if not in title.

Amelita Galli-Curci, world renowned coloratura soprano, was born in Milan on Nov. 18, 1889. A self-taught vocalist, Mme. Galli-Curci was almost unknown in the United States when engaged by the Chicago Opera Association in 1916. The anniversary of her 27th birthday was marked by the singer's Chicago debut. A re-engagement of four seasons was followed by her joining in 1921 the Metropolitan Opera company.

Bread and Bombs.

This government's pledge to feed the populations of territories it now commands in Africa may have more effect than the bombs it can bring to the task of breaking Germany's power.

This will be the old world's hungriest winter. The borderline starvation that has been the rule of existence for more than a year will become actual for millions of Europeans before another harvest. The Germans have admitted starvation will be common, and they have admitted that they intend to be the last to perish.

Food is a potent weapon. Adolf Hitler has not been able to feed the continent he has conquered. As word gets back to Europeans that the United States conquers to make food available, not to confiscate it, the impact on millions of hungry people will be terrific. —Canton Repository.

A Farmer's Diary

Old Fence

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HELPED a friend tear down his old worm fence. It was only 20 rods in length, and I never had seen a more tattered line of aged rails. The varying depths of the weathered grooves in the sides and top showed them to be both oak and chestnut. Different kinds of wood do not oxidize in the same manner.

Looking down the line, I saw that the panels had a way of falling apart—a pattern different from that made by human hands. At the farthest end, where the stakes and rider were still intact, one got a hint of what the ancient fence was like when newly built.

The day was cold, with snowflakes in the air, yet beneath the rotted portions, I found a warmth that was pleasant to my chilled bare hands. Some of the wood had become dust, and moist soft earth. The white roots of bluegrass already fed upon it. A pink, crisp blackberry root was completely immersed in this semiliquid layer. The tough mycelia of fungi threaded through the pulpy mass like tiny white sinews. Beetles, grubs, long knotted round worms, millipeds, large black ants, a hornet queen in an upper layer, small reddish fishworms, a two-foot garter roped about a more slender grass snake—I found all these within the length of a single fence corner.

Scared goldenrod, bull thistles, and rank growth of asters grew unmolested here. I saw where families of quail had bivouacked, where field mice possessed a safe home, where the chipmunk had sunk his burrow.

I almost stepped upon a rabbit that leaped and ran away in bouncing excitement.

My friend, who is an active practical man, worked rapidly from the farther end, piling the spongy, lichened rails into an orderly heap. "The plow can get clear out to the roadside ditch," said he, "and I can stretch a wire of electric fence to keep in the stock, if I need to."

"All the same," I said, "I'd like to build a new fence, like this was, around my fields."

CHAPTER XIX

Livia had lunch with Fordyce. He was irritable. Another quarrel with Alice.

"I waited two hours for you last night," Alice had yelled into a telephone at 12 that morning. "You can't do that to me. I'm going to tell my husband." But Fordyce knew that even Alice couldn't say to her husband, "I want to fire a director because he did not keep a midnight appointment with your wife." Oh, but she could make trouble for him in other ways. He almost decided to throw up the picture, and tell them both to jump in a lake. But here was Livia, her blue-gray eyes troubled. She would be grateful to him. And grateful girls were kind and yielding.

"Poor Bertha," she said, her eyes filling with tears.

"Poor Bertha nothing," snapped Fordyce. "What do you expect when you go about with drunks? She's lucky it wasn't worse. Look, if you want to get on this business, don't go out with drunks. I've seen too many—directors and actors getting $5,000 and $10,000 a week, and throwing it all into a bottle of liquor. Stay away from them. They drag you down with them if its's last damn thing they do."

There was fear in her pale face.

"I've scared you—that's fine. Remember, just as long as you are in this business, stay away from drunks."

She almost told him, "My father is Earl Dixon." She pictured the new look on the director's face. He would find it safer to have nothing to do with the daughter of a drunk. "I must find him," she decided. What if he were an extra in her own film?

"Do we have a lot of extras in the picture?" she asked him. But he was deep in his thoughts and didn't hear at first.

"When I came into pictures—in silent days," he told her, "drunkenness was more prevalent than it is now. There was a guy I worked for—Dixon, Earl Dixon—you wouldn't know him. But he was the best director then—or now, or ever. He drank—oh, my God, how he drank. What's that about extras? Are there many? No, why?"

"What did you say about Dixon?"

"I was his assistant director—a long time ago."

"D'ye ever see him now?"

"Sure, sometimes. I give him a job whenever I can, poor devil."

"Where is he now?"

"D'ye know him?"

"Oh, no—just curious."

"The last I heard of him—about a year ago—he was in jail."

He was paying the check and didn't see the expression of anguish in Livia's face. He only heard her faint echo!

'In jail?"

The burden of her secret was too heavy for Livia to carry alone. She must tell someone that Dixon was in jail!

"When do you want me for rehearsal?" she asked Fordyce. He stared at his watch.

"Come back at 4 o'clock. I'm testing you with Alice."

"Must I?" begged Livia.

She told him about her two previous encounters with Alice.

"She's mean," said Livia. "She'll have me fired, I know it. Please keep her away from me."

There was only one scene between the girls. It was a hospital story. Alice was a rich society girl in love with a doctor. Livia's role was small, but important. She was the nurse in the operating theater, through whose negligence Alice died.

"We'll use a dummy for Alice," grinned the director, "She won't have to see you."

Livia drove to Vera's house and found her putting the baby to sleep for her afternoon nap. She had been weeping.

"George is in trouble again. He has to appear before another committee."

"What's he doing this time—doping the horses?"

"I wouldn't be surprised," said Vera wearily.

Livia's sister had aged considerably since her marriage to George Maxwell. She had grown lax about her appearance. And her hair scrawled untidily across her forehead.

Livia hesitated—then said:

"I have something awful to tell you. But put the baby to bed first. Oh, she's so cute." Livia took the little girl's hand and smiled into the sleepy half-closed eyes.

"She's like you, Livia," said Vera proudly. "She has your smile."

They went into the living room.

"Well?"

"It's about father—he's alive," said Livia slowly and waited for Vera's exclamation of disbelief. But none came. "You knew?" she asked wonderingly. Vera nodded.

"For quite a long time," she said, "Mother told me—but we didn't want you to know."

"He's in jail," said Livia.

"He was in jail," Vera corrected. He had given a check to a restaurant, and it had 'bounced.' They were lenient—the judge knew him in the old days. And gave him only a month."

"Why didn't you let me know?"

"Why? It wouldn't help you in pictures to be mixed up with him. I had thought of asking Bruce to help."

"No!" said Livia sharply. Then slowly, "where is he?"

"Bruce?"

"No."

"Father? He has a room somewhere." Vera laughed suddenly, "I think he is quite crazy. I went to see him a few days ago, and he'd hired an orchestra, and they were playing in his room, and he was conducting. He kept asking for the funeral march from Beethoven's 'Erocia,' said they should play it in memory of the great man he was. And they kept playing 'Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair.'"

Livia shivered.

"It sounds awful," she said, "I hate him for what he did to Mother. But I think she would have wanted me to help him. I'm earning $150 a week."

She left some money with Vera to give their father.

"But don't tell him it's from me. I don't want ever to see him again."

* * *

Livia drove slowly back to the studio. Her footsteps echoed loudly on the wooden floor of the sound stage, and she paused in the dark emptiness. At the extreme end of the set Alice Delaware was having a tantrum.

"You silly little man," she shouted. The voice that replied was thin, high, and quite scared.

"Alice, darling," it pleaded. "Why must you embarrass me before all these people? If you don't like the sets, we'll build new ones."

Her husband, Hal Schneider, Livia guessed. She grinned in the darkness. So this was the most important producer in Hollywood. Why didn't he slap her face or tell her to shut up? But who in Hollywood was brave enough to slap Alice's face? "Not me," she thought and sympathized with Schneider.

"I'm not going to do the picture," Alice screamed. Oh, if she only meant that, thought Fordyce—and Livia. Schneider's voice squeaked in desperation.

"My darling, it is wrong for you to humiliate me before all these people. I will do everything you say, only please treat me with more respect."

"You're a silly little man," Alice screamed. There was a tearing noise. Probably her dress, thought Livia, and she edged toward the exit. This certainly was not the time to be seen by Alice.

"Unless you stop this immediately," she heard Fordyce say, "You'll have to get another director." Now there was a crash. And Livia wondered what had been thrown. The action was evidently beneficial for Alice, for she sobbed noisily. Her husband placed a podgy hand on her heaving shoulders.

"Don't, Alice baby, you break my heart when you cry like that." She did not fling him away as he had expected, and he was emboldened to pat the hay-colored hair that many rinsings in peroxide had brittled.

"You will change everything for me, won't you?" Alice purred through her tears.

"Everything, my darling, shall be as you wish."

"You're a honey and I'm a bad girl," cooed the star, "You may kiss me."

* * *

Livia hid behind a wall as hurried footsteps approached. She heard Schneider mutter, "Before all these people. Alice, you really shouldn't."

Fordyce was staring gloomily at the script when Livia tip-toed behind him.

"You earn $3,000 a week, or is it $15,000?" she said softly.

He straightened up.

"Get your make-up on," he commanded. "Now that you're here we can at least do tests with the leading man. We signed him today. Here he is. Hey, Terry! D'ye know Livia Clarkson?"

"How d'ye do," said Livia frozenly to Terry Davidson. He was extremely pleasant.

"We're old, old friends," he told Fordyce.

The director looked at Livia sharply. Then she had been around.

"How's Elizabeth?" Terry asked casually. "Elizabeth," he told Fordyce, "was a girl I almost married. Nice girl and plenty of dough. But she had a brother—how is Bruce? Oh, yes, he jilted you at about the same time," he grinned, "I hear he's going to marry Countess Saskia."

"Really? How interesting," said Livia formally.

"When you finish excavating your pasts, we'll do some work—that's what we're here for," said Fordyce.

Today Fordyce hated all women. He wished he were John Ford and had only all-man roles in his pictures.

Terry had a visitor—the Countess Saskia.

"Talk of an angel and here she is," he said gaily to Livia and Fordyce.

"Hello," said the director unenthusiastically.

"I dropped by to see Alice," gushed the Countess. "But they tell me she's gone. I wanted to invite her to a party I'm giving in which everyone comes as themselves — so original, don't you think?"

"Quiet everyone," yelled the assistant director. The Countess glared at him and started to speak, but Fordyce put a finger to his lips.

"Livia!" shouted Fordyce. "Do I have to tell you again not to look at the camera?"

Noting her tense face, the director chanced tactics and tricked her into giving a good performance. He had seen too many newcomers frozen or nervous when they thought it was the real thing. But in rehearsal, if they could act at all, they did well. So for the first few days he usually pretended they were still rehearsing.

"Come on, Livia." He smiled at her. "It doesn't matter if you blow up or where you look—the cameraman is in love with you and he likes you to look at him, and Schneider is rich, and we can rehearse for days—really, there's no hurry."

It was the slapping scene. Exasperated at the doctor's indifference, she had to waylay him in the hospital corridor and slap his face when he refused her plea to see him in his room. It shouldn't be too hard to slap Terry. He was in a jovial mood.

"Hit me as hard as you can," he said. "I'm tough."

Livia grinned at Fordyce, and he reminiscently touched his jaw on which she had broken her wrist in repulsing his advances.

"Not that hard," the director cautioned. "Use only 50 per cent of your strength. Now! Action! Camera!"

Livia was utterly confident. After all, this was only a test. The camera turned.

"Why do you always avoid me?" she asked Terry. He attempted to pass her. "I'm coming to your room tonight," she warned.

"If you do, I'll report you," replied Terry—pushing her aside. She swung him around.

"Oh, no you don't. Look, I know too much about you," she said with utter conviction. This was much too much realism for Terry, and his face lost its assumption of nobility.

"Why, you little ——" And then she slapped him. She thought of Elizabeth Nolan and slapped him again—much harder the second time.

"Hey!" protested Terry, nursing his reddened cheek.

"Swell, that's swell," shouted Fordyce," It's a take," he told her.

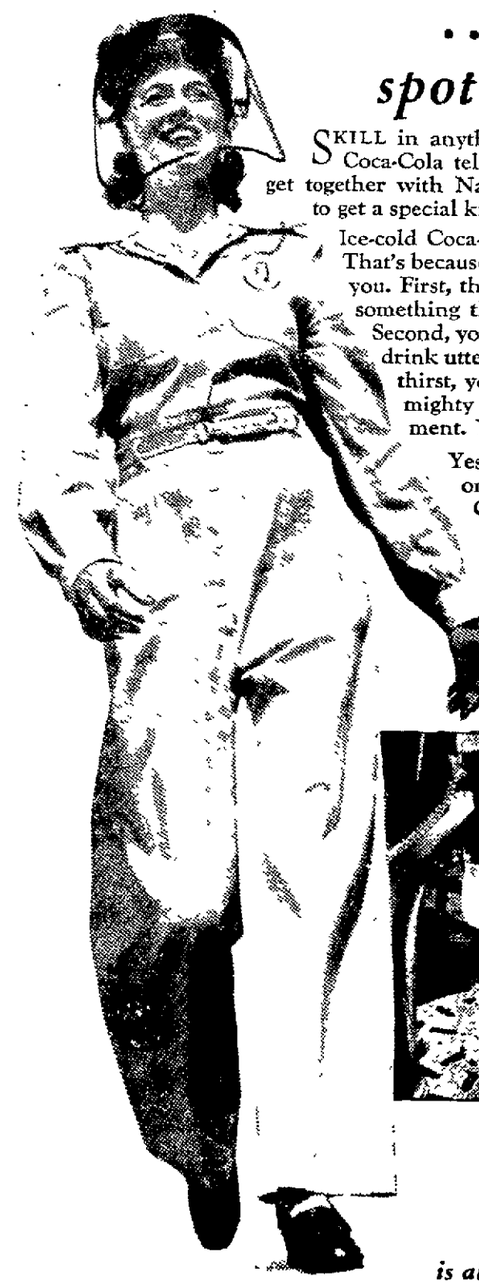
That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time



SKILL in anything comes from experience. An ice-cold Coca-Cola tells you that. When 57 years of experience get together with Nature's choicest ingredients, you're bound to get a special kind of refreshment.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola is the best-liked soft drink on earth. That's because it gives millions of others just what it gives you. First, there's the extra something you expect from something that was original to start with and still is. Second, you enjoy a blend of fine flavors. They set this drink utterly apart. Then, with a quick quenching of thirst, you get an after-sense of refreshment that is mighty satisfying. There's energy in that refreshment. You know you're face-to-face with quality.

Yes, the choice of experience tells you that only Coca-Cola tastes like Coca-Cola ... only Coca-Cola refreshes like Coca-Cola. Nothing ever equals the genuine ... the real thing.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coca-Cola, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

Where you find war work, you find workers welcoming ice-cold Coca-Cola. The rest-pause it provides means more work and better work.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

MELODRAMA GIVEN AT TEACHERS' SUPPER

Harold McCuen Directs Children's Theater Review at Teachers' Wives' Meeting Last Evening.

CHILDREN'S THEATER members entertained approximately 100 persons attending the Teachers' Wives' club at the Central Methodist church last evening for which Mrs. H. J. Dotson was chairman in charge.

A cast of 14 children presented a melodrama entitled "Gay Nineties' Review" under the direction of Harold McCuen coming here from Cleveland to direct the program.

Taking part in the one-act melodrama were John Bishop, Doris Alverson, Betty Gibson, Owen Hegarty, Ann Carol Thompson, Frankie Lane, George Ridenour, Martha Shiplet, Richard DeSanze, William and Robert Gandert, Sigrid Meisse, Jeanne Kroegher and Miss June Imhoff who came from the Ethal Battan studio to assist in the flora dora number.

At 6:30 p. m. supper was served by Mrs. Glen Robinson, Mrs. C. A. Divelbiss, Mrs. J. M. Holcombe, Mrs. R. Y. Davis, Mrs. E. C. Mann, Mrs. G. A. Clouse and Mrs. Parker O'Brien.

Group singing was led by Harold Ramsey and C. C. Secrist. Introducing the various numbers for the evening was Mrs. Victor Ketner, program committee chairman.

Table decorations were carried out in a patriotic scheme.

For the Dec. 16 business meeting, Mrs. Ketner will entertain the wives at her home, 483 Lexington avenue.

MRS. RABY HOSTESS.

The Friendly Eight club was entertained yesterday evening in the home of Mrs. Lester Raby, Bowman street. Bridge was played at two tables. Mrs. Henry Stauffer, Mrs. Albert Cook, and Mrs. A. L. Fisher were winners of the prizes. Luncheon was served at small tables. Mrs. Stauffer, 303 Newman, will entertain Dec. 3.

Sororsis Women Give Papers on Canadian Life

Music and papers on timely topics made the program for yesterday's meeting of the Sorosis club at the Women's Club when Mrs. W. R. King spoke on "Canada and Its People" in which she told of the church's influence in helping to keep both the English and French groups intact.

Mrs. W. H. Gifford, hostess, also defense chairman, presented a report on the work of war bond sales and told of the club's progress. Presiding was the vice-president, Mrs. O. G. Place.

In giving her paper on "French and Canadian Music" Mrs. Fred Troll sang several selections of their folk songs and well known French-Canadian songs to illustrate her talk. Accompanying her on the piano was Miss Elizabeth Glendinning.

Mrs. Ambrose Middleton will be hostess at the Women's Club when the group meets again on Dec. 1.

Supervisor of W.B.A. Present

The K of P hall was the scene of the W. B. A. No. 77 meeting Tuesday evening, which was presided over by Mrs. Mae Diesem, president. Mrs. Dorothy Berry, district deputy, and Mrs. Mabel Barth, district help supervisor, both of Cleveland, were visitors. Short talks were given by each.

Plans for the annual Christmas party were made and Mrs. Anna Crowl appointed as chairman for the affair. Red, white and blue was used as the color scheme for table decorations when luncheon was served at the close of the business meeting. The next meeting will be held at the hall, Dec. 1.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a [illegible] Pills. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10c and 25c.

The Difference In Funeral Services . . .

The more observing know that the services of all funeral directors are not the same.

People are paying more attention to the services they receive. They realize that much of the cost and most of their satisfaction—or disappointment—is due to the service.

Those who prefer the services and appointments provided by this organization will find that costs are no greater here than elsewhere. Nor is there any extra charge for the use of our Funeral Home.

VOYIK-CALLIHAN VOWS EXCHANGED TUESDAY

Rev. Herbert Garnes Reads Marriage Ceremony for Jean Voyik and Pfc. Dale Callihan; Bride Remains Here.

AT A LOVELY CEREMONY in the St. Luke's Lutheran church, Miss Jean Ellen Voyik became the bride of Pfc. Dale Hayden Callihan, at 2:30 p. m. on Tuesday. Before an altar banked with white chrysanthemums, pompons, ferns, and two seven branch candelabra Rev. Herbert S. Garnes read the ceremony.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Minnie Marks Cahall, at the organ. "Nuptial Song" by Dubois was Mrs. Cahall's first selection. During the ceremony she played "Through the Years" by Youmans, and "Salut D'Amour" by Lemare as the recession.

The bride was taken to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a two-piece dusty pink street length frock, trimmed in white wool with black accessories, and her shoulder corsage was an orchid. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Phyllis Voyik, who wore a two-piece black velveteen dress with gold and black accessories. Red rosebuds made her corsage. Jay Banks, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's mother was dressed in a black ensemble trimmed in white, with black accessories. Mother of the bridegroom wore a black dress with sequin trimming, and black and red accessories. Both had corsages of gardenias.

Soon after the wedding the couple left on a short trip through northern Ohio. For her traveling costume, the new Mrs. Callihan wore a two-piece bengaline suit, with brown accessories.

The former Miss Voyik is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Voyik, 47 Penn avenue. She is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and is now employed in the office of the Coca-Cola Bottling company. Pfc. Callihan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Callihan, 533 Park avenue west.

He, too, graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and was an employe of the Firestone company in Mansfield, before entering the service. After Pfc. Callihan's return to Victorville, Calif., where he is stationed in the army air force, Mrs. Callihan will reside with her parents on Penn avenue.
